had been an active member, and which position he still holds. On March 17, 1878, his wife died, a lady of force of character and amiable disposition, full of charity and good works.

On December 28, 1880, Judge Clark was again married, to Mrs. Celestia D. Arnold, widow of Captain Thomas S. Arnold who was killed in battle in the war of the rebellion, and a daughter of H. Nelson Dean, late of Owego, deceased, and formerly of Adams, Massachusetts, where she was born and reared. January 1, 1884, when Judge Clark retired from the office of county judge, he and his son formed a co-partnership, under the firm name of C. A. & H. A. Clark, and since that time have enjoyed and at the present time continue to have a large and remunerative law practice.

Judge Clark is now in company with his son, busily engaged in the pursuit of professional duties, hoping for years of success and enjoyment in his home and with his family, having concluded to shake the dust of politics from his garments and devote his life to his professional and personal duties.

John J. Van Kleeck comes from Holland ancestry, whose family tree is readily traced back to the year 1630, when Baltus Van Kleeck emigrated from Holland to New Amsterdam, and whose descendants afterward settled in what is now the city of Poughkeepsie, Duchess county, New York, where they built the first dwelling, which was known as the "Van Kleeck House." General Washington made it his headquarters when in that vicinity, during the revolutionary war, and it long remained a very interesting landmark. The Van Kleecks took a prominent part in the government of the colony, and Duchess county was represented in the colonial assembly by Baltus Van Kleeck, Jr., in 1715–16; by Johannes Van Kleeck in 1726–27; and by Leonard Van Kleeck in 1768–75.

John J. Van Kleeck is the son of John Manning and Amy Jane (Brock) Van Kleeck, and was born in the town of Candor, September 21, 1848. His early years were passed upon his father's farm in Candor, and in attending the district school of the neighborhood. And with the advantages for an education afforded by the common schools of the state, including attendance for two winters at the village schools in Candor and Spencer, supplemented by his reading and self-instruction, he laid the foundation of his mental acquirements. Determined to embark for himself in life, alone and unaided, in the fall of 1867, he sought and obtained employment as a clerk in the grocery store of Jerry S.

J. Van Kleeck.

Kinney, of Candor, who was also at the time a justice of the peace. Young Van Kleeck gave to the duties of his new position great care, showing much aptitude therefor, and paying close attention to the business of the justice's office; thus evincing a predilection at that early age, for clerical work. His fine penmanship was much admired and gained him quite a notoriety; so much so that in February, 1868, he secured a position as a copyist in the county clerk's office, through the recommendation of Delos O. Hancock, Esq., then a prominent lawyer of the county, with whom Mr. Van Kleeck had previously considered the advisability of pursuing the study of law.

It was in the county clerk's office, under the training of Horace A. Brooks, Esq., and his sister Miss Chloe, that he became conversant with the duties of a position, he was destined to fill so acceptably. Industrious and self-reliant, he applied himself not only to the immediate, but to the future or contingent needs of the office, by examining questions in advance of the actual requirement, and thus made himself of great value therein. And moreover, by the time he had attained his majority, he had become, through his own sterling worth, a recognized factor in the politics of the county. Mr. Brooks, his senior, having served nearly twelve years as county clerk, was not a candidate for re-election, in 1873, and the Republican party nominated Daniel M. Pitcher, one of the party veterans, and since postmaster at Owego. The Greeley canvass of 1872 had divided the Republicans, and Mr. Van Kleeck was tendered a unanimous nomination for the office of county clerk by the Democrats and Liberal Republicans, which he accepted. The contest was very spirited, and the youth of Mr. Van Kleeck was urged by his opponents as an argument against his election; but owing to his strong following and personal popularity in the county, he succeeded in overcoming the usual overwhelming Republican majority, and was elected, thus becoming the first Democratic official elected in Tioga county in over a quarter of a century.

His administration of the clerk's office was most excellent, and he naturally became a candidate for re-election in 1876. He was defeated, however, by a small majority, party-lines being closely drawn in presidential years. He then engaged in the fire insurance business and the negotiation of western farm loans, which business he still carries on, and it is a well known fact that not one dollar has ever been lost by any of his clients in any loan negotiated through him. In 1881, he was elected a justice of the peace of the town of Owego, for a full term, by a handsome majority. In 1882, he was again a candidate for county clerk against the incumbent, John C. Gray, whom he defeated by a majority of two hundred and thirty. In 1885, he was re-elected over Henry W. Childs, the Republican candidate, by a majority of two-hundred and eighty, and is now serving his third term.

While attending carefully to his public duties, Mr. Van Kleeck has nevertheless found time to engage in various outside enterprises, and much of the business prosperity of his adopted village is owing to his public spirit. Among the corporations which he has originated and promoted are the Owego Mutual Benefit Association, a popular life insurance company of which he is secretary and a director; the Owego Cruciform Casket Company, of which he is secretary, a director and acting treasurer, and the Owego Electric Light and Motor Company, of which he is also a director and secretary. The secret of Mr. Van Kleeck's success lies in his urbanity, his kindness of heart, his industry, his integrity and self-reliance, joined with superior ability and capacity for accomplishing whatever he undertakes. Just in his dealings, faithful to his friends, and loyal to his high standard of manhood, he is to-day, through his own merit, one of the foremost men in the county.

On January 6, 1875, he was married to Frances Josephine Byington, the accomplished and youngest daughter of the late Lawyer Byington, of Newark Valley. The union has proved a very pleasant and happy one.

Nicholas Rodman, son of John and Hannah (Gorse) Rodman, was born in Middleburg, Schoharie county, N. Y., September 23, 1809, and came to Owego in 1830. He located on the farm now occupied by him about three and one-half miles from Apalachin, on the river road. He married Phœbe (La Monte) Clark, by whom he had six children, viz.: Mary J., wife of Henry Hayes, Clarissa, wife of Isaac L. Potter, of Owego, Marilla, wife of Henry Coffin, now deceased, Charles, at present sheriff of Tioga county, George, of California, and Callie, wife of James Risen, of Gaskill's Corners. Mrs. Rodman died in 1854.

Samuel Abbey, born January 18, 1755, married Miriam Hall (born March 15, 1757), April 11, 1775. They had fourteen children, born as follows: Rachel, February 10, 1776; Sheubel, February 20, 1778; Hannah, February 22, 1780; Polly, January 3, 1782; Jerusha, January 16, 1784; Miriam, January 27, 1786; Jes-

Their children are John A., born March 20, and died May 26, 1883; Bessie R., born September 10, 1884, and Jessie S., born November 18, 1886.

Clarence A. Thompson was born in Owego, February 1, 1848. He was educated at the Owego academy, and the Oneida Conference Seminary at Cazenovia. On the 18th day of July, 1864, he entered the First National Bank of Waverly, as book-keeper, and was subsequently assistant cashier, and afterwards cashier of the bank. In April, 1870, he became teller of the First National Bank of Owego, and, in 1881, was made assistant cashier. He held that position till August 6, 1883, when the Owego National Bank was opened, of which institution he has ever since been cashier. Mr. Thompson is one of the progressive young men of the village. He was instrumental in having the telephone exchange established here, and was one of the prominent men in building the various steamboats plying between Owego and Big Island. He was treasurer of the village in 1876 and 1880, and as a member of the board of school commissioners, was one of the committee who had charge of the construction of the Free Academy.

This completes the biographical sketches furnished by Mr. Kingman, and by the friends of the subjects of the longer ones accompany the portraits, and we add the following:

Additional Sketches.—Moses Ingersoll, a soldier of the revolution, and who served under his father, Captain Peter Ingersoll, came from Half Moon Point, Mass., to the town of Owego, in 1791, where he bought five hundred acres of land, and settled on the farm now owned by E. F. Searles. He married Lavina Lee, by whom he had five children: Mary (Mrs. Simeon Decker), Winthrop, Sarah (Mrs. Ephraim Wood), Nancy (Mrs. Thomas Day), and John. He came to this country in about the year 1762, and was afterwards married to Hannah Eldridge, of Groton, New London county, Conn. They had two children, Katy and Hugh Eldridge. Katy was born at Groton, in 1764. She married and died there. Hugh Eldridge was born at Groton, August 5, 1766. When he was about two years of age, his father, who was captain of a merchantman, was lost at sea. In 1795, he came from Connecticut to Owego, where, in 1798, April 15th, he married Anna Brown, who was born at Brookfield, Fairfield county, Conn., February 11, 1777. Colonel Asa Camp, born in Rhode Island in 1760, served in the revolutionary war, and though young, he was assigned the task of commanding the party that buried Major Andre, the spy. Sometime after the close of the war he came to this town and settled not far from the present eastern boundary line, on the north bank of the river, where a considerable settlement afterward sprang up, and was named Campville, for him. At the time he located here, the country was a dense wilderness inhabited by wild beasts, and he was obliged to shut up his stock at night to protect them from the ravages of the wolves and panthers. He had to go down the river forty miles in a canoe, to mill; and once when recovering from a fever and his physician prescribed oysters, he was obliged to send a man with a team to Albany, that being the nearest point at which they could be procured. He was justice of the peace for a long period, and had the reputation of a loyal, conscientious citizen, and very benevolent in his conduct towards the sparse inhabitants in that section, who were struggling for a living. For many years he kept a public house for the accommodation of mail carriers and stockmen. The thoroughfares of those days were marked only by blazed trees, and travelers were not numerous. His family consisted of five sons and one daughter. Four of his sons settled on farms in close proximity to him. Colonel Camp died in 1848. His youngest son, John, born in November, 1788, settled on a farm near Campville in 1819, and resided there until his death in 1870. Of his children remaining in Tioga county are Mrs. R. W. The land which he had purchased being covered with a dense forest, he first took quarters with his family in a log house on a lot located by Anson Camp, since known as the Camp farm, and about two and a half miles from his own place. He then cleared a spot, built him a log house, and cut through the woods a road of nearly two miles in length. About this time he lost a little son, whose death was the first one which occurred in the settlement for twenty-six years. At this period there were but three voters in that part of the county. He was a man of strong Christian character and for fifty years was in enjoyment of church membership. A Methodist society was formed near his home, and he was class-leader for many years. He was for many years engaged in business and was on intimate terms with the old time merchants of Philadelphia. A gentleman of the old school, he was distinguished for an ease of manner and a generous hospitality which attracted many friends. His son, George, first came to Owego in 1816, for the purpose of attending school. On the fifth of December, 1828, he returned again to Owego and entered the store of John Hollenback as clerk, where he remained until 1831, when he entered into business for himself, near Towanda, Pa. After his marriage with Miss Jane Gordon, a lady of Scotch-Irish parentage whose ancestors on the father's side were distinguished in Scottish history, he acceded to the earnest wish of his childless relative, and with his

On January 16, 1867, the firm, from which Mr. Hand had previously withdrawn, was dissolved by mutual consent, and the property owned by them was divided. Mr. Hollenback retained the store and Mr. Bell took the saw-mill and lumber tract in the south part of the town of Owego, and after the dissolution of the firm of William H. BUSINESS CENTERS.

OWEGO VILLAGE.—In his centennial history, entitled, "Tioga County from 1784 to 1776," William F. Warner describes the situation of Owego village as follows:

"It is situated at the confluence of Owego creek and the Susquehanna river. The corporate limits of the village are, on their south and west lines, about one and a half miles in extent; the north and east lines are of less extent. To the north of the village, and about half a mile from the river, there is a bold 'headland' that rises to the height of four or five hundred feet, jutting into the valley, its slopes facing the south and west, upon the latter of which is situated Evergreen Cemetery. This headland forms the northern and northeastern boundaries of the village. The river, flowing from the east, makes a beautiful curve at the eastern border of the village. By a road along the south face of the headland, as well as by the road to the cemetery, easy access is had to the top; and standing upon this bold elevation, there is to be had a view extending for miles up and down the river, and over the valley extending northward, of remarkable beauty and diversity."

Early Settlers of the Village.—In 1791, there were but six families residing on the site of the present village of Owego. Seven years later, by an assessment made by Guy Maxwell, of New Town (Elmira), dated October 1, 1798, it is shown that there were at that time, nineteen houses in the village, most of which were built of logs. Land was then worth only from three to eight dollars per acre.

Many of the early settlers were revolutionary soldiers. One of them was Emmanuel Deuel, who settled in the northern part of the village, in 1790. The same year Captain Lemuel Brown came from Berkshire county, Mass., and erected the first tannery in the village. Mason Webster settled here, in 1791. He came from Lenox, Mass. He died December 26, 1854. Dr. Samuel Tinkham, the first practicing physician, came in 1792, and Capt. Mason Wattles, the first merchant, the same year. Dr. Elisha Ely came, in 1798, and Stephen Mack, in 1799. Ephraim Wood also came in the latter year, from Rutland, Vt. He died February 8, 1855.

Elizur Talcott, and his sons, George L., and Elizur Talcott, Jr., removed, in 1802, from Glastonbury, Conn., to Elmira, where they were employed in building a dwelling house. The next year they came to Owego and settled in the northwestern part of the village. The former died November 28, 1831; the second, November 30, 1873, aged ninety years, and the latter, January 28, 1867.

Prominent among the early settlers was Captain Luke Bates. He was the first white settler between Union and Campville. At an early day he purchased of James McMaster, various tracts of land in the town of Owego, and became owner of much of the land on which the village was subsequently built. In 1795 he built the first tavern in Owego village. It occupied a portion of the ground where the Ah-wa-ga House now stands, and was destroyed by fire in 1829. Captain Bates was an old sea captain. He died in 1813, near the Little Nanticoke creek, where he conducted a distillery.

James Hill

Owego as an Early Business Point.—Owego was the earliest settlement in this part of the state of New York, and, owing to its situation, became an important business point. The early settlers engaged in lumbering and shipping their product down the Susquehanna river in rafts, to a market. In 1808, the Owego and Ithaca turnpike was opened to travel. Then Owego became the outlet to a large section of the country. All the flour, grain, salt, plaster, etc., for the southern and eastern market, was brought down Cayuga lake by boat to Ithaca, and then to Owego by teams. The traffic was so great that from five hundred to eight hundred loaded wagons usually passed over the turnpike in a single day. From here it was sent in arks down the river. The cost of transporting a barrel of salt or flour from Ithaca to Baltimore, was one dollar and seventy-five cents. An ark cost seventy-five dollars, and would carry two hundred and fifty barrels. The trip from Owego to Baltimore occupied from eight to twelve days. At Baltimore the lumber in an ark would sell for about forty dollars.

The transportation business was so great that, in the summer of 1825, three steamboats were built, as an experiment. The Cadorus was built at Lock Haven, Pa., and was run up to Owego the next year. After an absence of four months, the captain returned and reported that the navigation of the river was entirely impracticable. The second boat, the Susquehanna, was built at Baltimore. She was destroyed by the explosion of her boiler at Nescopeck Falls, while ascending the river, May 5, 1826, and several of her passengers were killed. The third boat, the Pioneer, was run as an experiment on the West Branch of the Susquehanna river, and proved a failure. In 1835, another boat called the Susquehanna, was built in Owego, by Wilkesbarre and Owego capitalists. This boat made several trips up and down the river, but proved useless for the purpose intended.

The business of transporting merchandise from Ithaca to Owego attained such great proportions that, in 1828, a number of capitalists, residing in Ithaca and Owego, chief among whom was James Pumpelly, obtained a charter from the legislature to build a railroad between the two villages. This was the second railroad chartered in the state of New York, and it was opened to the public in April, 1834. It entered the village at the north and extended down through the village park, and up Front street. The cars were run by a switch under the stores on the river's bank, where their contents were readily unloaded into arks.

In the fall of 1849, the New York and Erie railroad was completed to Owego, and all traffic by river, with the exception of lumber, potatoes, etc., ceased.

In the morning of September 27, 1849, a fire destroyed all except three of the stores on Front and Lake streets. One hundred and four buildings, exclusive of barns, were burned, entailing a loss of about $300,000. Nearly all the buildings were of wood. This great calamity checked, but did not permanently impair the prosperity of the village. The business men, without delay, caused the erection of the present substantial brick blocks in the place, and progress was thereafter continuous.

The centre of trade at the time of the early settlement of the village of Owego was that portion of Front street, nearest to Church street. Where the Ahwaga House now stands, Capt. Luke Bates built a tavern (in a portion of which was a store) as early as 1795. Eight years afterward, Charles Pumpelly bought the property.

The first merchant in Owego was Mason Wattles, who came here in 1792. Bates and Wattles bought land of James McMaster, and were owners of many of the lots which are now the most valuable in the village. The merchants doing business in Owego previous to 1810 were Mason Wattles, Thomas Duane, William and Nathan Camp, Gen. John Laning, Maj. Horatio Ross, John Hollenback, Charles Pumpelly, Gen. Oliver Huntington, and Gen. Anson Camp.

Owego to-day, has a population of about 6,000 people, and contains one agricultural works, three foundries and machine shops, one piano manufactory, one boot and shoe manufactory, one harness manufactory, one brewery, one marble works, two bottling works, one coffin manufactory, two carriage manufactories, three planing mills, two flouring mills, one saw mill, two soap manufactories, seventeen groceries, eleven dry and fancy goods, and variety stores, five millinery stores, four clothing stores, three hat stores, five boot and shoe stores, five drug stores, two furniture stores, three fruit stores, three book and news stores, three bakeries, four hardware stores, three livery stables, two laundries, four cigar manufactories, three coal yards, ten hotels, thirteen saloons, five liquor stores, thirteen physicians, five dentists, eighteen lawyers, six churches, four insurance offices, five barber shops, three banks, four newspapers, four job printing offices, three jewelry stores, four telegraph offices, one telephone office, three photograph galleries, three railroad depots, two express offices, four meat markets, one tea store, one milk depot, one sewing machine store, two musical instrument stores, three harness shops, one fishing-tackle store, one cooper's shop, one silver spoon manufactory, two public halls, and various tailor, blacksmith and other shops.

Village Improvements.—Soon after the coming of the first white people, the settlement was regularly surveyed and laid out as a village. The survey was made by Amaziah Hutchinson, in 1788 and 1789, and completed by David Pixley, Jr., in 1789 and 1790. The village territory comprised all of lot No. 23 in the original survey of McMaster's Half Township, and was known as the "Town Plot." It was bounded on the south by the Susquehanna river. The western boundary line ran from a point on the river bank near where Mr. Lovejoy's residence stands on Front street, north, diagonally across the village park, to near the corner of Church and Temple streets, continuing thence in a straight line past the corner of Fox street and Spencer avenue to a point about where the gate to Evergreen Cemetery now is. The north line ran from the latter point to Main street, a little west of the N. Y., L. E. & W. railroad. The east line extended from the latter point south past the corner of Ross and Front streets to the river.

The first highway through Owego was regularly laid out November 7, 1791, by Amos Draper, William Bates, and William Whitney, the first commissioners of highways of the town of Union. It commenced at the fording place in the Owego creek, near where Main street now crosses the creek and extended east on the present course of the street to the Kiuga (Cayuga) road, now McMaster street, and down to Front street, then known as the "Main river road." Thence the highway followed the present course of Front street east out of and beyond the present limits of the village. At the same time the Cayuga road was regularly laid out as a public highway, extending from "Robert McMaster's landing" at the foot of the street now known as Academy street, to near John Nealey's home on the Owego creek.

On Hutchinson's map there were two streets running east and west which were identical with the present Main and Front streets, but much narrower than at present. There was a road where Lake street now is and it extended in a direct line from the river out of the village. A lane extended from the river north along the west line of the old Avery property north to where Temple street now runs. Another lane extended north from the river where Paige street now is, to Temple street. Another lane was extended from Main street north, along the line of W. L. Hoskins's residence to a point about where East Temple street now runs. These were all the streets in the village at that time.

Village Incorporation.—The village of Owego was incorporated by an act of the legislature, dated April 4, 1827. The population of the town of Owego, at that time was about 3,000 and of the village 750. The first election was held in June, 1827, at the court-house. The first trustees elected were James Pumpelly, Eleazer Dana, Harmon Pumpelly, William A. Ely, and Jonathan Platt, Jr. The board organized by choosing Mr. Pumpelly president of the village, and Ezra S. Sweet, clerk. In 1854, an amendment to the charter provided for the division of the village into five wards, and the election of the president by the people direct. William F. Warner was the first president elected under the amendment, in 1855.

The charter of 1827 provided that the village limits should confine all that part of the town of Owego then included within the jail limits of the eastern jury district, or as such jail limits should be established at the Court of Common Pleas at its next session, in the following May, and should contain not to exceed three hundred acres of land. The territory under this charter comprised all the land bounded south by the river, north by Temple street, west by William street, and east by Ross street. The village boundaries were again enlarged by act of the Legislature, April 9, 1851, and were subsequently enlarged by acts dated April 15, 1854, April 15, 1857, and April 3, 1872.

Village Park.—On the 28th of February, 1797, James McMaster sold to the people of the settlement of Owego, for the sum of ten pounds sterling, a little more than three acres of land for a village park. The piece comprised all the ground now occupied by the village park and Court street, and the land on which the county jail, the old county clerk's office, and the old academy building stand. To hold this land, McMaster, in the deed conveying it, named Capt. Mason Wattles, John McQuigg, and Capt. Luke Bates as "Trustees of Owego Settlement." On the 4th of September, 1813, Eleazer Dana and John H. Avery, were chosen to succeed Bates and McQuigg, who had died a short time previous. Gen. Anson Camp was chosen to succeed Captain Wattles upon the latter's removal from Owego soon afterward, and Messrs. Dana, Avery, and Camp continued to act as trustees until the incorporation of the village, in 1827. That portion of the park occupied by the jail and old clerk's office was sold by the trustees to the supervisors of Tioga county, October 29, 1822. The old academy lot was sold to the trustees of the Owego academy, April 8, 1828.

First Village School.—The first school in Owego was taught by a man named Quincy. And I here make correction of a blunder, founded in misinformation and made permanent through the gross stupidity of a superanuated and incompetent manufacturer of catch-penny history.

French's "Gazetteer of the State of New York" is remarkable particularly for its many blunders. Among others, in a foot note on page 652 (edition of 1860), it says that "the first school was taught by —— Kelly, in 1792."

In 1872, one Hamilton Child published a "Gazetteer and Business Directory of Broome and Tioga Counties," in which the blunder of French's Gazetteer was reproduced, Mr. Child, as a matter of course, repeating the statement that "—— Kelly" was the first teacher.

In 1879, what purports to be a "History of Tioga, Chemung, Tompkins, and Schuyler Counties," was printed in Philadelphia. In compiling this remarkable aggregation of blunders, a genial and fossiliferous old gentleman named Dr. Everhart, was sent here to write the history of Owego. He soon accumulated a vast fund of rich and varied misinformation. The writer of this sketch, in casual conversation, incidentally informed Dr. Everhart that Quincy was the first school teacher and that if he would go to Mrs John Carmichael (at that time the oldest living resident of the village, and the only survivor of Quincy's pupils), he could learn all the particulars he might desire. He did so. A few days afterward he came to the writer, in high glee, saying that in looking over some papers in the old Pumpelly land office he had come across the name, "John Kelly," and that as there were few settlers here at that early period he was sure that he had discovered the full name of the teacher. So, assuming that Mrs. Carmichael was mistaken in regard to the teacher's name, the statement that John Kelly was the first teacher went into the "History," and Mrs. Carmichael was quoted as authority. The truth is, that John Kelly was not a school teacher at all, but a farmer, who lived in the neighborhood of Campville, six miles distant from Owego. His name will be found among those ordered to do highway duty, in 1791.

Quincy taught school in the small log house, which stood on the east side of Court street, where the old Academy building now stands. He had a scar on his face, which disfigured him badly. It was said that he had been disappointed in love, and had shot himself in the mouth in an attempt to commit suicide, the ball breaking the jaw and causing his mouth to be twisted to one side.

At a late period there was an old log school-house on the south side of Main street, a little west of where St. Paul's Episcopal church now stands. This was torn down and a frame building erected in its place. The latter was two stories high, and the second floor was occupied as a lodge room by the Masonic fraternity. Isaac Lillie and Erastus Evans were at different periods teachers of the school. The latter was the teacher when the building caught fire, one day, in the summer of 1835, while school was in session, and burned to the ground.

The question of building an academy in Owego, was agitated as early as 1817. Nine years later, by act of the legislature, James Pumpelly, William Camp and John H. Avery were appointed commissioners to sell the "gospel lot" and apply the proceeds to such school purposes as should be directed by a vote of the inhabitants of the town. On the 19th of December, 1826, at a special town meeting, it was unanimously voted to appropriate the yearly income of the interest arising from the sale of the "gospel lot" to the endowment of an academy. On the 8th of April, 1828, the trustees of Owego Settlement, deeded the old academy lot, on Court street, to the trustees of the Owego Academy. The academy was built in 1827, on a contract, by Col. Amos Martin, and Abner Beers had charge of its construction.

James Pumpelly was president of the first board of trustees of the academy, which was composed of Rev. Aaron Putnam, Col. Amos Martin, Dr. Joel S. Paige, Latham A. Burrows, Eleazer Dana, Gurdon Hewitt, Rev. Joseph Castle, Charles Pumpelly, Jonathan Platt, Anson Camp, and Stephen B. Leonard. Rev. Edward Fairchild was the first principal of the academy. Sixty male, and sixty-one female pupils attended the first term.

The several school districts in the village were consolidated by act of the legislature, dated April 23, 1864, and the academy was merged into the "Union Schools of the Village of Owego," as a free school, under control of a board of school commissioners, elected by a vote of the people.

The present academy, at the southwest corner of Main and Academy streets, was built in 1883, at a cost of $25,000.

First Mills—The first saw-mill in Owego was built by James McMaster and Amos Draper some time previous to the year 1791. It stood on the east side of the Owego creek, a little above the present Main street bridge. The first flouring-mill was built by Col. David Pixley, in 1793. It stood on the west side of the Owego creek, in the town of Tioga, opposite the Indian spring. Colonel Pixley was one of the earliest settlers of the present town of Tioga. He was one of the proprietors of the Boston Purchase, and came from Stockbridge, Mass., in 1791, at the age of fifty-one years. He was a colonel in the Colonial army, and fought in the battle of Quebec, under General Montgomery. He was treasurer of Tioga county from 1798 to 1803. Some time previous to the year 1800, he removed to Owego village. He owned a large tract of land on the west side of the Owego creek, which he sold to Eliakim and Judge Noah Goodrich, Jr., in 1802. He died in Owego, August 25, 1807.

Of the present mills and manufactories of the village, that of Gere, Truman, Platt & Co., is the most extensive. This factory, known as the "Drill Works," is conducted in the old Bristol Iron Works property, and the business is the continuation of that established by George W. Bristol and others, in 1866. The present firm employs a large force of men in the manufacture of "Champion" farm wagons, grain and fertilizer drills, harrows, etc.

Dorwin, Rich & Stone, at Canawana, are extensively engaged in the manufacture of flour.

Shaw & Dean, whose mills are located on Central avenue, are also extensive merchant millers.

Sporer, Carlson & Berry, on North avenue, are well-known manufacturers of pianos, and dealers in musical merchandise. This business was started in May, 1857, by E. Hosford, dealer in pianos. In the fall of 1861, a firm was organized, consisting of H. Norton, F. Sporer, and O. M. Carlson. They subsequently associated with them Mr. J. Berry, and again the firm became as it exists at present. In 1867, they were burned out, but started again in 1868.

Moore & Ross, extensively engaged in the manufacture of carriages, wagons, and sleighs, began business here April 1, 1859.

The Owego Cruciform Casket Company conducts a large business in the manufacture of burial caskets.

Arba Campbell, extensively engaged in tanning sheep skins, built his tannery here in 1871, and began business under the firm name of A. Campbell & Co., January 1, 1872. The tannery has twenty-four vats, and the capacity for turning out five hundred sheep skins per day, and employs about eighteen hands.

H. N. Dean & Son's tannery had its beginning in a small way, many years ago, when Elihu Parmenter built a small tannery in connection with his shoeshop, on the opposite side of the street from the present site. He increased its capacity from time to time, and moved the tannery to the site now occupied. In 1860 he disposed of the property to Alanson P. Dean, of Berkshire county, Mass., who in turn increased the capacity. His brother, H. Nelson Dean, became interested with him, and finally, with his son, Ransom B., bought the whole property. H. Nelson died in August, 1872, and the whole property reverted to Ransom B. and his brother, Isaac N. The latter soon after disposed of his interest to Ransom, who still owns the tannery, retaining the firm title of H. N. Dean & Son. The tannery has sixty double vats, ten liquor vats, seven lime vats, five "soaks," three "baits," and two "pools," making in all, eighty-seven vats; gives employment to twenty-five men, and turns out about 25,000 sides per year, principally of card and russet leather, using about a thousand cords of bark. Albert H. Upton is superintendent.

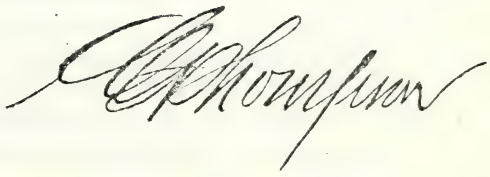

L. & G. Brown's apiarist's supply manufactory, located off North avenue, was established by them in 1881, where they manufacture hives, boxes, foundations, &c. The factory is run by a six horse-power engine.

Alexander J. Thomas's green-houses, on Main street, were erected by him in 1885. He has several hundred square feet under glass, and does a large business in cut flowers and plants.

Banks.—The First National Bank of Tioga, located on Front street, was organized January 6, 1865, to supercede the old Bank of Owego, a state institution, organized with $200,000.00 capital. FLEMINGVILLE is situated at the junction of the east and west branches of the Owego creek, five miles north of Owego, and derives its name from one of the early settlers, Captain David Fleming, who was also the first postmaster. Captain Fleming came from Newton, Sussex county, N. J., to the town of Nichols, in this county, in 1806, removing thence, two years afterward, to Flemingville. He served in the war of 1812 as captain in the third company of the third regiment, heavy artillery, and fought in the battles of Sackett's Harbor, Lake George, Erie, etc. He died at Flemingville, February 4, 1862, aged eighty-two years.

His son, General Robert L. Fleming, was seven years of age when the family settled at Flemingville. At the age of twelve he accompanied his father with the Federal army, as his waiter, and was a witness of the battles in which his father was engaged. After the war he organized a company of state militia, of which he was chosen captain. About the year 1835, he was elected, by a vote of the field officers, a brigadier-general, in command of the Ninth Brigade of New York State Artillery. In the war of the rebellion he assisted Colonel Kane in organizing his "Bucktail regiment," in Elk county, Pa. He was elected sheriff of Tioga county in 1840, and served four years. He died on the 26th of February, 1877.

The earliest settler of Flemingville was, probably, Asahel Pritchard. He was born in Connecticut, May 28, 1763. He came into the Wyoming valley with his step-father, and after the massacre, in July, 1778, he came to Nichols, in this county. Soon afterward he came to Flemingville, where he settled on the East Owego creek, and engaged in deer hunting. He bought the farm on which his grandson, Asa Pritchard, now resides, about a mile north of the Flemingville church, and paid for it in the game he shot, and without doing a day's work on his farm himself, he hired others to clear it, and paid them from the proceeds of his hunting. Soon after coming to Flemingville, he returned to Connecticut, where he married Polly Stedman, on the 22d day of August, 1790, returning at once, accompanied by his wife, who rode all the way on horseback. He died at Flemingville, September 24, 1840.

Mrs. Stedman's brother, Amzi Stedman, was born in Connecticut, January 14, 1783. He was seven years of age when his sister was married, and he accompanied her to Flemingville. He became the owner of the farm next above the Pritchard farm, on which his son, Lyman Stedman, now resides. He died at Flemingville, February 21, 1854.

Daniel Ferguson and Daniel Ferguson, Jr. came to Flemingville sometime previous to 1791. The elder Ferguson was a soldier in the revolutionary war. Judge Avery, in his "Susquehanna Valley" papers, (St. Nicholas, p. 361) says:

"During the early progress of the war, then a young man, he was taken captive upon the Delaware, by the Indians, and brought by them to the present site of the village of Owego, where he was detained as a captive through the winter, and for a larger proportion of the year. The Indian family by whom he had been adopted, and with whom he lived, occupied their bark lodge near where Paige street intersects River [Front] street. Upon his subsequent settlement in this town he was able to designate its precise locality, by its proximity to the Indian burial mound, near or upon the homestead premises of the late Eleazar Dana, Esq., which retained its peculiar shape long after the village was settled. The summer next after his capture, he accompanied his foster-father upon an expedition to the Delaware, and by an ingenious stratagem escaped in the night, and made his way to a white settlement at Port Jervis, in Orange county, where his friends resided previous to his capture. In relating the incidents of his captivity, he uniformly made mention of the considerate kindness, exhibited by the Indian family toward him at all times."

Jeremiah Brown and his son, Benjamin Brown, were early settlers near the present village of Union, Broome county, some time previous to 1791. They removed to Flemingville, in 1796. None of their descendants reside here, but Solomon Brown, a son of Benjamin, lives at Union.

Another early settler was Richard Searles, who was born in 1753, and who came from Bedford, Mass., to Nichols, in 1791, removing thence to Flemingville, in 1795, where he built a sawmill. He died September 9, 1849.

Charles E. Truman, of Flemingville, was born in Candor, November 1, 1807, and located upon the farm now owned by his son, Charles F., in 1816. He married Harriet Webster, May 26, 1836, who has borne him nine children, all of whom are living, and in 1886 they celebrated their golden wedding. The children are Aaron B., Adelaide (Mrs. Henry W. Blewer), Adeline (Mrs. Frank J. Blewer), Helen, Lyman B., Elias W., Charles F., Lucy

(Mrs. William Mead), Lydia (Mrs. Adelbert Hammond). Mr. Truman has held most of the minor town offices, has been a justice of the peace for the past twenty-four years, and postmaster about the same period.

APALACHIN is situated on the south side of the Susquehanna river, eight miles east of Owego village. It derives its name from the town of Apalacon, Susquehanna Co., Pa., where the Apalachin creek rises. Apalacon and Apalachin are, apparently, corruptions of the name Appallachian, the general appellation of the great mountain system, stretching from Maine to Alabama.

There was no village at Apalachin until about the year 1836, when William S. Pearsall came here from Chenango county. Ransom Steele came soon afterward from Owego, to open and manage a branch store for John Hollenback. He afterward engaged in the mercantile business on his own account, and was for many years also engaged in lumbering.

Four brothers, Nathaniel, Thomas, William S. and Gilbert Pearsall, came together to Tioga county, or at about the same time. They built saw-mills, and owned them in partnership, at Apalachin, Hooper's Valley, and Pea Island, near the Pennsylvania line, and also owned a large lumber yard near Baltimore. In the financial depression of 1837, they failed in business. Gilbert and William Pearsall obtained an extension of time, and afterward resumed business. The brothers at the same time dissolved their partnership and divided their property. About the year 1840, Gilbert and William Pearsall built grist-mills at Hooper's Valley and Apalachin, at a cost of from $5,000.00 to $6,000.00 each.

William S. Pearsall and Ransom Steele were the active business men of Apalachin, and were the chief stockholders of the bridge, which was built across the Susquehanna river at Apalachin, in 1849, at a cost of $75,000.00, and which was afterward carried away by a freshet.

The earliest settler of Apalachin was Isaac Harris, a Quaker, who came, in 1786, from Providence, R. I. The next year he returned, and removed his wife (nee Nancy Reed, whom he married in 1786), and household goods, coming down the river from Cooperstown in a rough boat, which he built for that purpose. Mr. Harris and a partner had made a contract for the purchase of the land known as Coxe's Patent, paying part down. His partner started for Philadelphia to pay the balance, and was never heard from afterward. Mr. Harris settled on the Apalachin creek, on the river road, on what has since been known as the Glann farm and the Pardon Yates farm. The first white child born at Apalachin was their daughter, Phebe, who married Willard Thayer, and settled on the Holland Purchase. Isaac Harris died about the year 1835, aged seventy-four years.

Amariah Yates came from Massachusetts, in 1791, and settled at the mouth of the Apalachin creek. One of his sons, Paul Yates, settled about two miles east of Owego, on the west side of the Little Nanticoke creek.

Caleb Nichols and his son, Simeon Nichols, both revolutionary soldiers, came from Rhode Island, in the latter part of the year 1791. The former died in 1804, and the latter May 16, 1836, aged ninety-three years.

John Bills and his nephew, Abel Bills, came from New Lebanon, N. Y., in 1792.

Major David Barney, a revolutionary soldier, came down the river from Cooperstown, with a large family of children, and was one of the first settlers of the town of Vestal, Broome county. He removed to Apalachin, in 1802, and built the first house on Apalachin creek.

John Hicks Horton came from Rhode Island, soon after Caleb Nichols came, and settled two miles below Apalachin, opposite Campville.

Thomas Tracy came to this vicinity with his wife and infant son, Benjamin Tracy, and settled near the mouth of Tracy creek Broome county, in 1790. The creek received its name from Mr. Tracy. In 1801, he removed with his family to Caroline, Tompkins county, and thence to the Holland Purchase, near Buffalo. His son Benjamin, several years afterward, returned and settled on the Apalachin creek, where he raised a large family of children, one of whom is Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy, of Brooklyn. Benjamin Tracy died January 31, 1883.

John Jewett, with his sons Asa and John Jewett, Jr., came from Putnam county, in the winter of 1816–17, and settled one mile west of Apalachin. He was the grandfather of Harry Jewett, Esq., of Owego. While residing in Putnam county, he had held the offices of county clerk and member of assembly. He died in April, 1849.

Henry Billings settled at Apalachin, about the year 1822, and kept the first tavern here.

Dr. Isaac W. Lewis, of Apalachin, was born in Owego, January 2, 1821. His parents soon after removed to Glenville, N. Y., where they resided till he was fourteen years of age, when they returned to Owego. The doctor attended the common schools there, and after coming here graduated from the Manninton Academy, at Silver Lake, Pa., began the study of medicine with Dr. Ezekill Daniels, and graduated at the Castleton, Vt., Medical College, in 1848. He commenced practice in Silver Lake, Pa., and in 1852 came to Apolachin, where he has practiced since. Dr. Lewis married Ellen Sutton, in 1844, who bore him five children, three of whom are living, viz.: James A., a physician, of Ithaca, N. Y., Hattie E. (Mrs. William Inderlid), and George B., a practicing physician, of Owego. Mrs. Lewis died in 1874, and in 1876 the doctor married Mrs. Susan A. Catlin, of Tioga, N. Y.

B. F. Tracy & Son's Marshland stock farms here, consist of six hundred acres, on the river road, where they carry on very extensively the business of breeding and raising the best blooded trotting horses. They have been engaged in this business since 1878, and have constantly on hand from one hundred to one hundred and twenty-five head of horses, and employ about twenty-five men. As breeders of superior trotters, the Messrs. Tracy have a wide spread reputation, and their system and equipments for raising and breaking trotters are second to none in the country.

CAMPVILLE is situated on the north bank of the Susquehanna river, seven miles east of Owego. The first settler was Col. Asa Camp. He came from Columbia county, N. Y., to the town now called Vestal, in Broome county, in the spring of 1789, removing thence to Apalachin, in 1792, and subsequently to Campville, in 1800. He was a sergeant in the revolutionary war.* He was a witness of Major Andre's execution, and assisted in digging his grave. He built the first tavern at Campville, in 1800. He held the offices of poundmaster, assessor, commissioner of highways, and overseer of the poor, and was supervisor of the town of Owego, in 1817 and 1818. He was eighty-eight years of age at the time of his death, which occurred July 17, 1848. His sons, Roswell and Silvester Camp, were both equally prominent men in that part of the town.

Campville was early known as East Owego, but when Stephen

* Wilkinson's "Annals of Binghamton" (page 88) says of Colonel Camp: "He served in the revolutionary war, in the capacity of sergeant, four years; commanded at Fort Frederick, on the Mohawk; and with fifteen men in the fort effectually repelled two hundred Indians and Tories. When a flag was sent in for them to surrender, Sergeant Camp sent word back, 'that Yankees lived there; and if they got the fort they must get it by the hardest.' He was in the battle of White Plains; was in one battle on the sea, near the banks of Newfoundland, and was also at Valley Forge."

Yours Truly

B. F. Tracy

B Leonard was in congress he caused the name to be changed to Campville, in honor of Colonel Camp.

The indigent ones here are supported at the expense of the town from which they have gained a residence, while transient ones, or those having no permanent place of residence, are supported at the expense of the county at large. The alms house is a large stone structure, built in 1839–40. The insane asylum, located opposite the latter, is a wooden structure, built in 1885–86. It is very commodious and complete, having accommodations for, and does accommodate, others than indigent unfortunates. It is said to be the finest county asylum in the state. The Free Will Baptist Church of Apalachin was organized by its first pastor, Rev. H. S. Ball, in 1869. The church building was erected in 1872. The society has at present no regular pastor.

The Whittemore Hill Methodist Episcopal Church was built in 1850–51. The society was then organized. It belongs with the Union, Broome county, charge, and Rev. George T. Price is pastor. It is a neat wooden structure, and the land for its site was leased to the society by Isaac Whittemore, for $1.00, "so long as it is used for church purposes," then to revert to the farm.

RICHFORD* is located in the northeast corner of the county. Its surface is mostly up-land, broken by narrow valleys. The West Owego creek forms the western boundary, and the east branch of the creek forms the principal valley, which runs through the middle of the town, north and south. The northern boundary is the division line between Tioga and Cortland counties, and the south boundary is five miles south of the north line, the lines running parallel, due east and west. The east line of the town is quite irregular, though it is the dividing line between the counties of Broome and Tioga, having been fixed on original lines of certain lots which were numbered in the original survey of the "Boston Purchase," and the lines running north and south, only extended between, running from either parallel to another, so that the north and south lines of lots did not range one with the other, hence there is seven right angles in the east line of the town, some of which turn east and others west. In area, the town comprises ninety-two original lots, averaging about two-hundred and seventy-five acres each, and numbering from lot No. 421, in the south-east corner, to lot No. 431, on the south side; and on the north side from lot 569, in the north-east corner, to lot 580. The town is from seven to ten miles wide, in an air line across from the east to the west line. On the north border is the highest lands in the county, indeed, the border is on the ridge of the great watershed that forms two sides of the vast lake basin that is drained through the Gulf of St. Lawrence. This summit divides the drainage, the water flowing northward into the basin, and onward into the St. Lawrence, to mingle with the waters that flow southward, through Chesapeake Bay, in the Atlantic. The summits are 2,000 feet above tide. In the creek valley, where the depot is located, the altitude is 1,090 feet above sea level, 271 feet higher than Owego. This difference in altitude occasions more variation in climate than does the difference in latitude. The highest point in the aforementioned valley is in Dryden, four miles north of the town of Richford, the elevation being 1,208 feet above tide. Near the northeast corner of the town, on lot 530, and farm of James Sears, is an elevated point of arable land, from which may be seen, by the aid of a telescope, the waters of Lake Ontario, and eastward, the landscape stretching across the north part of Broome and south part of Chenango and south corner of Otsego counties, into Delaware county, the view extending into eight counties. This high point is the summit of the angle in the watershed, running northward and westward, stretching along some six miles south of lake Erie, onward around the south basin. All along on the watershed ridge, on either slope, the land is arable, and the most elevated lands are equally productive with the valleys, indeed, the best farms in the town lie on the high ranges.

Origin of Name.—The village of Richford first took its name, in 1821, at the time the "public square" was surveyed and granted by deed, for public purposes. The grantors were Ezekiel Rich, who donated the north half, and Stephen Wells, the south half. Both deeds set forth that: "Said land is to be used for a public square, and for no other purpose, reserving to all persons owning or possessing the land around said square the privilege of twelve feet in front of the line of square for piazzas, flagging, shade-trees, and railing; but no person to set the front of his building over in front of the square." The deeds bear date October 9, 1821, and they were duly executed on October 13, 1821, by being acknowledged in due form before David Williams, who was then a judge of the court of common pleas, in and for the county of Broome, and the deeds were recorded in the Broome county clerk's office, in book of deeds No. 8. page 20, on the 24th day of October, 1821. From Mr. Rich, the village was called "Richford," which ultimately became the name of the town. It should be remembered, in this connection, that Broome county was formed from Tioga, March 28, 1806, and that Owego and Berkshire, formerly adjoining towns, were re-annexed to Tioga county, March 21, 1822, which made the territory of the town of Richford a part of Tioga county.

Until as late as 1812, the territorial limits of the town of Richford was, practically, an unbroken wilderness of primitive forest. The aborigines had located their camps and hunted here, long before, and some lingered after the settlement began. An opening of a few acres in the southwest corner of the town, on lot 423, near the present residence of Widow Jewett, had been made by the Indians, leaving traces of cultivation. From no records can the exact date when the first white settlement was begun, nor can it be said definitely to whom belonged such honor. One well versed in the pioneer history of this section, however, has placed in our hands the following article, entitled the

EARLY HOUSEHOLDS OF RICHFORD.*

Evan Harris, if tradition is correct, was the first settler where the village of Richford now stands. He was a weaver, and came from Berkshire county, Mass., but how early, is not known. He was certainly here before 6 Jan., 1808, on which day he earned half a dollar by chopping for Joseph Waldo, of Berkshire. He dwelt in the log house where Nathaniel Johnson afterward lived, north of the spring where Philip Lacy now lives. His wife died 10 Feb., 1812, and was buried in the Brown cemetery, below the village of Berkshire. It is said that she died of consumption, and there is evidence that her passage to the grave was made as easy as possible by the use of paregoric. The names of his children are not known, with the exception of one son, Evan Harris, Jr., who was badly burned, according to tradition, by falling backward into a kettle of hot maple sugar, 10 April, 1812. This was nearly two months after the mother's death, the father was away from home, and the lad helped himself out of the kettle, and did not stop till he reached the house of Jeremiah Campbell, over a mile down the valley, where Mrs. Campbell kindly cared for him till his burns were healed. Another child was born 17 Aug., 1811.

Elisha Harris was in the same region as early as March, 1808, and perhaps was a relative of Evan Harris. He had children:

I. ———, b 24 Dec., 1808. II. ———, b 28 Dec., 1811.

It is thought that Elisha Harris lived in what is now called Caroline, N. Y. His name occurrs in John Brown's account book, in December, 1798, and he was taxed, in 1802, in Tioga.

Paul Stevens was an early settler of Richford, on lot 424, one of the south tier of lots in the town. He built a log house, on the side of the way, but the road when properly laid passed directly over the site of it. This place he sold in the spring of 1821, to Gad Worthington, and left the place with all of his family. He is remembered as a worthy, pious man, and Mrs. Caroline Rich thought he was a member of the First Church of Tioga, etc. But the records do not reveal his name. He used to go up the valley to lot 533, about three miles above the village, to make his maple sugar.

Only an imperfect list of his children has been found:

I. Paul, probably the eldest son, born as early as 1797; was drafted as a soldier in the war of 1812. He remained in Richford after his father moved away, and was evidently of full age in April, 1818, able to buy whiskey, tobacco, and clothing on credit, and 17 July, 1818, he prepared for haying, by purchasing a scythe at one dollar and fifty cents. He is remembered as the drummer of the Berkshire company of militia, and able to play his part in all the military customs of that time.

II. Seth, was about Richford in March 1818; and probably went away with his father, soon after that.

III. David, is also remembered as one of the family.

IV. ——, b 14 May 1809, name unknown.

John Watson lived on the N. E. quarter of 421, the S. W. corner lot of Richford, where Daniel P. Witter now lives. He married with Susanna Smith, and dwelt in Rutland, Mass., tell after their first child was born; then moved to Hinsdale, Mass., and, April, 1810, came to the Boston Purchase. His brother, John Watkins, settled in Newark Valley, about the same time. She died 30 May, 1840, of erysipelas, aged 51 years, 3 months and 10 days. He died 20 May, 1865, of apoplexy, aged 78 years. Samuel Smith, son of Heman and Lucy (Taylor) Smith, was born at ——, Mass., about 1784; m with Huldah Goodale, daughter of Isaac and Jemima (Warner) Goodale, of Berkshire, N. Y., formerly of Westhampton, Mass., where she was born on Tuesday, 26 March, 1782. They settled on Berkshire West hill, where she died 5 July, 1811. He m (2d) with Theodosia Dewey, who was born at Pittsfield, Mass., 28 Nov., 1791, daughter of Ezekiel and Hannah (Barker) Dewey. They were among the earliest settlers at the village of Richford, where he built a small house, about 1813, east of the valley road, and north of the turnpike, in which he kept a tavern, till about 1817, when he sold it, probably to Beriah Wells, and moved to lot 384, on the northeast quarter, east of the road, where he died 3 May, 1846, aged sixty-two years. She died at Berkshire, 24 May, 1864, aged seventy-two years and six months. Nathaniel Johnson lived on the west side of the road in the village of Richford, and was one of the early settlers in that part of the town, if some traditions are trustworthy. He married with Lucy Smith, a sister of Samuel Smith, and daughter of Heman and Lucy (Taylor) Smith, of Berkshire. She died, and he m (2d) with Clarissa Goodale, widow of his first wife's brother, Heman Smith, Jr., and daughter of Isaac and Jemima (Warner) Goodale. Mr. C. J. Robinson calls him "the third settler within the domain of Richford," and says: "He moved into the house vacated by Mr. Evan Harris in 1814. He remained on the lands he first purchased during sixteen years, and then migrated west. Mr. Johnson's home was the home of tramping missionary and circuit preachers. These Christian devotees were ever kindly welcomed by the new settler and his family, and as Mr. Johnson was not a professor or church member, those callers used to call their host 'Brother-in-law Johnson,' and sometimes 'The good sinner.'" Other people, who had the advantage of knowing him personally, say that he was a very worthy, zealous and consistent member of the Methodist church. He dwelt where Mr. Hotchkiss S. Finch now lives, on the west side of the way. They had children:

I. Lucy, b at Fairfield, Vt., 15 Jan., 1800, m with Ezekiel Dewey. II. Smith.

He married with Elvira Walker, from Conn., and settled in Susquehanna county, Penn., and, after a few years, returned to Sangersfield, Oneida Co., N. Y. In the spring of 1816, they came into Richford, via Cortlandville, and settled where Alfred Davis now lives, on the west side of the road, on lot 574, the middle lot of the north tier, in the present town of Richford, and this was the first household in the east valley, north of the village, and dwelt there in Dec., 1820. He was born in 1787, and died 6 March, 1883, aged nearly ninety-six years. He was a soldier of the war of 1812. She died 28 April, 1836. They were buried at Harford. Their children were:

He married (2d) 5 March, 1832, with Susanna (Scott) Gleazen, widow of his brother, Ebenezer Ede Gleazen. He dwelt in Stockbridge, till 1808; then settled in the west border of Berkshire, afterward at Berkshire village, and moved in the spring of 1817 to the village of Richford, in which he then built the fourth house, near where the Congregational church stands. For this house he cut a place in the woods just large enough so that the remaining trees should not reach the house in falling. In the spring of 1826 he returned to Stockbridge, and remained till the fall of 1828, when he returned via the Erie canal and Cayuga Lake to Richford, where he died August, 1865, aged eighty-two years. Mr. Gleazen was brought up by——Pepoon of Stockbridge, which accounts for his remaining there after the rest of the family came to Berkshire. His children were:

I. Horatio Jones, b at Stockbridge, Mass., 9 November, 1804; m 2 February, 1835, with Marietta Chaplin, and died in Cortlandville N. Y., in May, 1860.

V. Mary, b at Berkshire, 4 June, 1813; died 8 November, 1813.

"Mr. Stove" is remembered by Mrs. Daniels, as one of the men who lived at the site of Richford village, when her father moved there, in 1817, but he soon moved away.

Beriah Wells kept a tavern north of the turnpike, and east of the present village green, in two small houses which had been drawn together and fitted up by him. One of these houses had been built for a tavern, about 1813, by Samuel Smith. The other was built a year or two later, by his brother-in-law, Nathan Johnson. Mr. Wells was born in Richmond, Mass., 1 Feb., 1782, in a house which stood on the state line, between Massachusetts and New York; married in Hopkinton, Rhode Island, 22 Oct., 1806, with Lois Wells, daughter of Thompson Wells, of Wellstown, in that town. He was a painter and chairmaker, and settled at Lenox, Mass. In the spring of 1813, he came to Berkshire, now Newark Valley, and, about the first of June, began the manufacture of chairs, as told to his wife in his letter of 21 June, 1813. His family arrived here shortly before 21 Nov., 1813, and lived in the house with Elisha Wilson one year, while he was building his house and shop, on the west side of Berkshire street, the first building south of the Wilson creek. In Aug., 1817, he moved to Richford, and kept the tavern, as above stated, till 3 April, 1821, when he returned to Newark Valley, having exchanged his Richford property with Ezekiel Rich, for a farm on the south side of lot 103, where his daughter-in law and grandchildren now live. He was a prudent, thrifty, careful man, contented with small gains, not disposed to waste either time or money, but always taking time to do his work in the most thorough manner; so deaf as to make it hard to take a part in social converse, and possessing a more kind and generous heart than those who were not intimate with him were aware of. His wife died 23 June, 1854, aged 71 years. He died 30 June, 1861. Their children were:

I. Frederick Theodore, b at Lenox, Mass., 26 Oct., 1807; married at Newark Valley, 22 Feb., 1837, with Jane Bement. He died on his father's homestead, 11 Nov., 1866, and his widow and children still live there.

He married (2d) at East Windsor, Conn., 14 Sept., 1788, with Caroline King, who was born 6 March, 1752, daughter of Zebulon and Keziah (Loomis) King. They moved to Newark Valley about 1815, and thence, about 1821, with his son, Lucius Wells, to Richford, where he died 18 Feb.,

1824. He m (3d) with Mrs. Elizabeth (Butler) Griffith, who died at Richford, 2 June, 1838, aged 77 years. He died 14 June, 1838, aged 84. Children:

He was born at Lenox, Mass., 20 June, 1777, eldest child of Stephen and Love (Ford) Wells; joined the church there, 20 October, 1799; m there 4 Jan., 1801, with Lois Hubbard, of Lenox. They were dismissed 21 Jan., 1810, to Dr. Neill's church at Albany, and returned 24 Sept., 1815, to that at Lenox, of which he had already been elected a deacon, 1 Sept., 1815. They probably settled at Richford, about 1818; and, after a few years removed to Steuben county, N. Y. Their children were:

I. Hubbard Ford, b at Lenox, 11 Dec., 1801.

They dwelt in Lennox, till 1818, then settled in Berkshire, now Richford, living first in a log house from which Paul Stevens had lately moved, while building a new house, into which they moved in October, 1818. On his first trip he reached Richford 31 March, 1818, with a wagon load of goods drawn by a yoke of oxen and a horse. He went back for his family, and reached Richford with them on Friday, 17 July, 1818. It is said that he taught the first school there, in his own house. She died 13 May, 1855. He died 2 April, 1859. V. John, b 29 Jan., 1824; m 21 Sept., 1852, with Mary Kimberly.

VI. Mary Ann, b 16 June, 1828; m 5 Oct., 1848, with Hon. Wheeler H. Bristol, of Owego.

VII. Robert, b 25 Jan. 1830; m Dec., 1859, with Jane Bristol. He died at Oakland, Cal., 13 Aug., 1862.

George T. Pierce bought the north half of lot 548, which he visited in the fall of 1817, and made arrangements to have a log house built on it, east of the road, but by a miscalculation the house was built on the south half of the lot, just below the middle. In the spring of 1818, he brought his family from Paris, Oneida Co., N. Y., and settled in this house. His wife was —— Simmons, a cousin of George P. Simmons, and a sister of Mrs. Simmons. They must have brought with them as many as five or six children, none of whom remain in Richford. This was the second household in the east valley of Richford, north of the turnpike.

George P. Simmons, from Paris, N. Y., bought the south half of lot 548, and in the fall of 1818, made a settlement on it, east of the road, where Mrs. Vincent now lives. He married with —— Simmons, his own cousin, and a sister of Mrs. Pierce, above named. They must have brought with them as many as five or six children, none of whom remain in Richford.

Augustus VanBuren, a very worthy negro, came to Richford, in 1818, and settled on twenty-two acres of land on lot 424, which he bought of Gad Worthington. His house still stands east of the road, a short distance below the bridge. He brought a letter of dismission from the church at Lenox, Mass., and he and his wife, Sibyl, were constituent members of the church at Richford, 14 Jan., 1823. He had been a slave in the VanBuren family, at Kinderhook, and often said that he had many times carried in his arms the infant, Martin VanBuren, who in return, sent him money, in his old age, to buy tobacco with. Mr. W. F. Belden says "he bought his freedom by working seven years for Judge Walker, in Lenox, Mass., who paid his master 115 pounds sterling for him. He died, aged 102 years, respected by all." Sibyl VanBuren died 27 Feb., 1846. She was his second wife, and was not the mother of his children. They were:

I. ——, a daughter, m at Kinderhook, and remained there.

II. Hetty, who m with Augustus VanDyke. They joined the church at Richford, 12 Aug., 1829, by letter from the P. R. Dutch church, of Kinderhook, N. Y., and she died, 30 Jan., 1841, aged 48 years.

III. Sarah, was admitted a member of the church at Richford, by profession of faith, 14 Jan., 1823, the day of its organization, and died 23 May, 1838, aged about 40 years.

IV. Joseph, died in Richford.

Notes to Census Table.—In December, 1820, the Hon. Chester Patterson, of Union, N. Y., who was then enumerating the inhabitants of Broome county, passed through the town of Berkshire, which then included the town of Richford. His list shows, forty-five householders within that part of the town which is now included in Richford, only six of whom then lived east of the valley of the East Owego creek. The following is his list of names, with such notes as have been gathered in relation to them, and it is believed to be substantially correct, though not so full as could be wished. The names in this list preceded by a star, have already been mentioned; the others are referred to in the following notes, by corresponding numbers. It may be well to add, also, that there were no unnaturalized foreigners in the town, only three blacks, and no one engaged in commerce. The enumeration makes the total population 263.

2. Henry Krum, lived in or near Richford village, perhaps on the turnpike west of there. He married with Harriet Rounseville, who was born at Caroline, N. Y., 25 Jan., 1801, daughter of John and Rebecca (Chamberlain) Rounseville. In Dec., 1820, when the census was taken they had only one daughter. They have since had another daughter and two sons. They afterward moved to Caroline, and he died at Slaterville, N. Y., in October, 1886. She was living in June, 1887, with her daughter, Mrs. Harrison Banfield, on Snyder Hill, near Varna, N, Y. It is said that Mrs Krum was the first white child born in the town of Caroline, N.Y.

3. Benjamin Rathbun, lived at Richford village. His history has not been found. He is remembered as a teamster, working about the mill, and in the woods, with his own oxen.

8. Isaac Goodale, lived, it is thought, on lot 580, the northwest corner lot in the town, near where George Baker has since lived. He was a farmer. He was born in Northampton, Mass., on Sunday, 1 Oct., 1780, son of Isaac and Jemima (Warner)

Goodale. He afterward moved to Michigan, and died there. His father lived on Berkshire West Hill, in 1820.

9. John Newton, lived it is thought, on the same lot with Isaac Goodale, but it has been found difficult to get a trustworthy account of them.

10. Henry Morgan, lived on the south side of the turnpike, between that and the creek, on the S. W. quarter of lot 501. He built the saw-mill N. W. of his house, on the little stream that comes down the hill there; and turned the water of Trout run into it to help drive the mill, which was not built till after 1820. He was engaged in agriculture, in 1820. His house was near the Willow bridge.

11. Zelotes Olney lived near the center of lot 501, north of the turnpike, and east of the road that leads up Trout run. He was taxed in the Brown's Settlement road district in 1798 to work three days, but probably he then lived below the south line of Richford. His name was also in the tax list of 1802. He had children—Oman, John, Samuel, No. 31 and others.

Benjamin Olney was assessed in the Brown's Settlement highway district in 1798, to work three days, but he probably left soon after, as his name is not in the tax list for 1802. His relation to Zelotes Olney is not known.

12. Elisha Briggs, a physician, lived north of the turnpike on the east end of lot 501, where the name of S. B. Allen is on the atlas.

13. Caleb Arnold lived on the turnpike, on lot 500. He was a blacksmith, and built there the first mills in Richford. His saw-mill, in 1820, was rated at forty thousand feet per year. His grist-mill does not appear in the census, and possibly had already gone out of use, for it is said that it required so much power that he fitted a crank to the bolt so as to turn that by hand. His mills were on the West Owego creek, and have since been known as the Robinson mills. Mr. C. J. Robinson says: "He erected a shop and machinery for the manufacture of cut nails, about the first of nail manufacturing in this country." He was recorded as engaged in manufacturing. He sometimes framed his own buildings, using a post-axe for beating out the mortises.

14. Jacob Roads lived on the turnpike northeast of Padlock, and on the southwest quarter of lot 498, where the atlas bears the name of J. Brooks. He was an Englishman, a mason, a quarryman, and is noted as engaged in manufactures.

16. Wheeler Wood, a farmer, lived in one of the five log houses which composed the hamlet of Padlock; so named from the fact that a padlock hung at each of the doors, and it is said that the were so careful, that if a woman went to the spring for a pail of water, she would lock the door, even if her husband was chopping wood in front of it; but some stories are too good to be true. It is said that Henry Branch, of Newark Valley, was driving along this road about 1870, when his horse broke through the covering of an old well, near the middle of the road, and had hard work to get out. The well was about twenty feet deep, and had gone wholly out of the memory of the people of that region.

17. Elijah Gilbert kept a tavern on the corner west of the creek road, on lot 461, where the county atlas bears the name of J. T. Osborn. He also made rakes, bedsteads, etc. He probably married with Betsey Watkins, and his sister, Sally Gilbert, married with John Watkins, of Newark Valley. They came from Partridgefield, now Peru, Mass., about 1812. Among their children:

Levi, m with Betsey Watkins, and settled at Waverly, N. Y.

Mary, m with James Lockhart Watson.

Melinda, moved to one of the Western States.

18. Amos Raymond; 19. Daniel Raymond; 20. William G. Raymond; farmers, and perhaps brothers, all dwelt at or near the hamlet of Padlock. Their history has not been obtained.

21. Russell Freeland lived on the hill road, on the south part of lot 421, near the southwest corner of the present town of Richford, and a short distance above the old Baptist meeting house, now in ruins, in the northwest corner of Berkshire. He was born in Blandford, Mass., about 1786, m about 1807, with Emily Cushman, who was born at Becket, Mass., about 1787, daughter of Jonah and Rachel (Whiting) Cushman, and sister of Marble Cushman, of Berkshire. After living in Blandford for twelve years, they moved to Berkshire, now Richford, where he died as early as 1837, of typhus fever. In the house with him dwelt his widowed mother, one of his sisters, and his brother, Joseph Freeland. Their children were:

I. Emerilla, b in Blandford, Mass.

II. Lydia, married with Julius Smith, of Richford.

III. Clarissa, b in Blandford, Mass.

IV. Mary, b in Blandford, Mass., resides at Port Dickinson, N. Y.

V. Russell, b at Richford in 1821; married 30 Jan., 1845, with Deborah Williams Smith, and they reside at Ouaquaga, N. Y.

VI. Vesta A., b. at Richford, in 1826; married 6 May, 1850, with Deloss Tefft, of Edmeston, N. Y., and resides at Guilford, N. Y., three miles east of Oxford.

VII. Orin M., b at Richford, in 1829; married 11 Feb., 1857, with Jane A. Wilcox, daughter of Erastus and Laura Wilcox, of Tully, N. Y., and resides in Colesville, N. Y.

Joseph Freeland, who lived in the same house, and owned the north part of the same lot, was born about 1790, and had wife, Lydia, who died 7 April, 1875, aged 88 years. He died 1 Aug., 1879, aged 89 years. They were buried in the cemetery in the northwest corner of Berkshire. Among their children were two daughters, born before Dec., 1820. Lyman Freeland, of Newark Valley, and Squire D. Freeland, of Richford.

23. David Draper was a laborer, did not own a home, was often at the tavern, and sometimes did a day's work there, as early as December, 1817. Perhaps he hunted occasionally, as there is evidence that he bought a pint of whiskey and a canister of powder, 8 Sept., 1818. Another Draper, named Timothy, had the same habits, as early as 1817, but was not named in the census, though the number of persons enumerated in David's household, would indicate that Timothy, and his wife, too, may also have been members of it. Their house has not been identified.

24. Daniel Harrington lived on lot 460, east of the road, where Daniel Leach now lives. Reuben "Herinton," who may have been his father, was named in the Tioga tax-list of 1802.

25. William Lynch lived on lot 460, where Lyman Jewett now lives.

26. Jesse Gleazen, 2d, lived in a log home, northeast of the road, on lot 422, where the heirs of W. J. Patch now own. He was son of Caleb Gleazen, and grandson of Joseph Gleazen.

Caleb Gleazen, the father of Jesse Gleazen (2d), is said to have died on the hill west of where Mr. Heman Daniels now lives, but the date has not been found. He lived at different times, in various parts of the town, and sometimes out of the town. He had, in the course of his life, three wives, and twenty-one children. He was a soldier of the Revolution. He was assessed to work five and a half days on the highways, in Brown's Settlement, in 1798. One of his children was born 23 Dec., 1808.

27. Thomas P. Brown lived on the same road, on the N. E. quarter of lot 422, where the atlas bears the letters W. J. P. He was born 13 Nov., 1784. He married with Polly Burghardt, daughter of Abraham and Lovisa (Rees) Burghardt. They joined the church at Berkshire, now Newark Valley, by letter, 2 April, 1820, and were dismissed 12 Jan., 1823, to become constituent members of the church at Richford, which was formed 14 Jan., 1823. He was elected a deacon of the new church. He afterward moved to Maine, N. Y., and probably died there 21 Feb., 1841, by church record, while his grave stone says 22 Feb., 1841. His family went to Wisconsin. They may have had more than the following children:

I. Azubah, b 21 March, 1807; d 17 Aug., 1835.

II. Betsey, b 11 June, 1809; d 24 April, 1809.

29. Isaac Burghardt (son of Abraham No. 30) lived on the east side of same road, a short distance from his brother Jacob Burghardt. He had a child born 8 Jan., 1821.

30. Abraham Burghardt, Sen., lived on the east side of the same road, on lot 223, (and with him dwelt his son John Burghardt, who died in 1886, having lived with his wife sixty years lacking two months). He married with Lovisa Rees, (who was a sister of Caroline Rees, the wife of Deacon Nathaniel Ford, of Berkshire). She joined the church at Berkshire, now Newark Valley, by letter, 6 June, 1813, and was dismissed with eight others, 12 Jan., 1823, to form the church at Richford. Their children were:

Abraham, No. 32. Isaac, No. 29. Jacob, No. 28.

John Rees, m with Achsah Gardner.

Polly, wife of No. 27. Caroline, wife of No. 31.

31. Samuel Olney lived near the same road, out in the lot between Isaac Burghardt and Abraham Burghardt, Sen. Soon after 1820 he moved to Richford village, and afterward went West. He m with Caroline Burghardt, daughter of Abraham and Polly (Rees) Burghardt. Before her marriage she joined the church of Berkshire, now Newark Valley, by letter, 6 June, 1813, and was dismissed 12 Jan., 1823, with eight others, to organize a new church at Richford. Samuel Olney was a son of Zelotes Olney, No. 11. His children were:

He married with Mary Watson, daughter of John and Susanna (Smith) Watson, and moved to Unadilla, Michigan. One of their children was born 3 Oct., 1821, and they had two at least before that.

33. Martha Tracy lived east of the road, on lot 421, the southwest corner lot in the town. She was the widow of James Tracy, and the daughter of Nathaniel and Sarah Blackman. Afterward she lived where Dea. Green Raymond has lived, in Caroline.

The six names which follow, were taken in connection with the census of Lisle, and were, of course in the eastern part of the town, on the border of Lisle.

40. Thomas Tracy, lived on the south side of the turnpike, near the north line of lot 470, where Ralph P. Smith now lives. He was, probably a son of Ebenezer and Electa Tracy, of Lisle, N. Y. He was in the neighborhood of Brown's settlement as early as 1803.

41. Ezra Howland. His place of residence has not been ascertained.

42. Abraham Dudley was probably the same who was a constituent member of the Richford Church, as Abraham N. Dudley. His residence has not been ascertained.

21. Thomas Keeny lived near the centre of lot 339, where A. H. Ford has since lived.

Ezekiel Rich was born at Cherry Valley, N. Y., 14 Aug., 1783;

Ezekiel Rich was born at Cherry Valley, N.Y. 1785,—son of Simeon and Lucy (Lincoln) Rich; m with Caroline Slosson, who was born at Stockbridge, Mass., 23 Feb., 1791, daughter of Ezbon and Electa (Williams) Slosson. They dwelt on lot 103, in Newark Valley, till 3 April, 1821, when, having traded places with Beriah Wells, he moved to the present site of Richford village, and continued there his business of manufacturing buckskin goods, trading and farming, to which he added that of tavern keeping. He built the hotel building, and by his enterprise did much to build up that part of the town of Berkshire, which, finally, on becoming a separate town was named in his honor. He died 18 April, 1854. Additional Settlements.—Dr. Elijah Powell came from Chenango county, N. Y., and took up his residence in the embryo village in 1823, beginning practice as a physician and also acting as surgeon in the new settlement. The young doctor, twenty-three years of age, soon acquired an extensive practice and rose to eminence in his profession, which he adorned until old age exempted him from duties he had assiduously performed. On the 4th of July, 1826, the Doctor delivered the address at the first Fourth of July celebration held in Richford. In 1824, he erected the brick building, now occupied as a store by H. Rowley, for his office and drug-store. Two years later, he built the large brick building on the corner, connected with the office building, the larger one being designed for a dwelling, store and offices. Socially, Doctor Powell was a kind, affable, sympathetic man, generous to a fault, ever ready to respond when called to visit the sick, whatever were the circumstances or conditions of those who needed medical treatment. As a Christian, he was a devoted follower of Him who gave Himself a sacrifice for mankind. He ever took a zealous interest in schools and educational matters, and he was the first county school commissioner in and for the county of Tioga. Originally, these commissioners were appointed, but the law was changed so that they were and are elected, and the Doctor was elected the first after serving the appointed term. He was unmarried when he became a resident of Richford, and took for his wife a belle of the place, Miss Lydia Wells, who died of consumption, July 18, 1833. A few years later he married his second wife, Miss Jane Anderson, of New York city, by whom he had two sons and five daughters. At length he became worn out by hard service, for a large amount of which he received no pecuniary reward. He seldom dunned, never distressed his debtors, whose numbers exceeded, perhaps, one half the population of the town. After a lingering sickness, he died, January 12, 1876, aged seventy-three years, and was buried in accordance with the rites of Free Masons, to which order he had been a worthy member during nearly, if not all, of his majority.

Peter Perry, one of the early settlers in the western part of Richford, came here, from Massachusetts, and made the first settlement on the farm now owned by Edwin A. Perry. He married Jane Surdam, and reared five children, Norman, Eleanor, Luther, Jane, and Guerdon. Luther came here with his father, married Maria, daughter of Joseph Quimby, and reared nine children, four of whom are living, namely, Alonzo, Frank, Daniel M. and Edwin A. He was a distiller by trade, and for a long time run a distillery, the first in town, on the farm now owned by Orrin Walker. Mr. Perry died in July, 1866, aged sixty-one years.

Elijah Gilbert was also an early settler in this part of the town. Mr. Gilbert had some trouble with his neighbors, and locked his water-trough with a padlock, according to one version, since which time this locality has been known as Padlock.

Isaac C. Smith came from Hamden, in 1823. He married Sally Pryor, and reared eight children, viz.: Julius C., Jonas P., Franklin H., Polly M., Estella C., Ralph P., William W. and Sarah. Of these only two are living, Julius C. and Ralph P. The latter has married three times, first, Fidelia Smith, second, Lucy A., daughter of William Cross, who bore him three children, Edward, deceased, May E. and Maud W., deceased, and third, Mrs. Elizabeth Speed, of Caroline.

Horace Goodrich was born in Durham, Conn., May 6, 1787, married Eleanor, daughter of Ichabod Scranton, of Durham, and located here about 1820. He made the first settlement on the farm now owned by Daniel Leach, but after living there a few years, he found that he was not upon the tract of land that his title called for, and he was obliged to leave it. He moved to Newark Valley, where he died in 1829. He reared six children, namely: Dwight, Horace B., Guernsey S., Jerusha C., William S. and Emeline M. Of these, only three are living, William S., Jerusha, widow of Benjamin Krum, and Emeline M. (Mrs. Bostwick Brigham).

Lemuel D. Polley was born in Massachusetts, and moved to Dryden when a small boy. He married Polly Smith, of that town, and came to Richford in the spring of 1825. He made the first settlement on the farm now owned by Solomon Polley.

Jabez Ayres was born in Sussex county, N. J., and made the first settlement on the farm owned by William Wright, about 1825.

James Brigham was born in Brookfield, Mass., married Marcia Hastings, and made the first settlement on land now owned by Benjamin Thomas. He reared a family of nine children, five of whom are living, namely, Lucia, widow of Henry Branch, of Berkshire, Laura and Bostwick, both of this town, Alfred, of Schuyler, Neb., and Elizabeth, wife of Edward Gilbert, of Brookfield, Mass. Bostwick married Emeline, daughter of Horace Goodrich, and has three children, Marcia, wife of George Barber, of Newark Valley, Emma, wife of Charles Dickerson, of Cardiff, and Charles, who lives at home.

John Hamilton, son of Eliakim, came from West Stockbridge, Mass., in 1835, and made the first settlement on the farm where Mrs. Catherine Decker now lives.

Dioclesian Sears was born in Lenox, Mass., and came here in 1832, locating on the place where his son, James M., now lives. Philip Sears came at the same time, and settled on the next place east.

Hotchkiss T. Finch was born in Windham, N. Y., May 12, 1831, and came here with his father, in 1841. In 1850, he purchased the saw-mill on the farm now owned by Delia Vincent, which he run until 1862, when he went to Lisle, and bought the Lisle flouring and saw-mills. He sold them the same year, came back to Richford in 1866, and in 1870, the firm of H. S. & J. W. Finch was organized. He married Charlotte E., daughter of Robert Ketchum, of Lisle, and has one son, Charles R. In 1875, he, with Ketchum & Co., purchased the store of C. D. & G. L. Rich, and the firm of Finch, Ketchum & Co., was organized. Charles R. was born in this town, November 22, 1866, married Katie, daughter of W. Dwight Hull, of Owego, and is engaged in farming.

Much of the eastern part of the town has been settled only a few years. Among those who made the first settlements were Ithiel Burleigh, who located on the place where G. C. Tubbs now lives, Anson Stanley, on the place where he now resides, Robert Tubbs, Augustus Hill, James Satterly and William B. Satterly. Mr. Burleigh remained on his place only three years, when the place was abandoned, and G. C. Tubbs purchased the property, in 1846, and began clearing the land.

What may serve to give readers an idea of the town's progress in growth is a knowledge of the dates of the formation of the school districts. There are fourteen districts, five of which are joint districts, and there are eleven school-houses in the town. Prior to 1819, no district was defined by metes or bounds, but a school had been kept at "Padlock" several terms, which was attended by the few children whose homes were situated on or near the turnpike, at points between the Owego creeks, and up as far as Willow bridge. Down to 1832, all of the territory lying east of the East Owego creek in the town of Berkshire, and north of the subsequent line between Berkshire and Richford, comprised one district, in area about one-half of the town. Just prior to the time Richford was set off from Berkshire, school district No. 10, of Lisle, was altered so as to take in six lots lying in Richford. When the town was divided, there were seven districts, including the joint ones.

The comparative growth of the town may be seen by the following citation from the several census enumerations since the town was organized: 1835, 882; 1845, 1,093; 1850, 1,208; 1855, 1,182; 1860, 1,404; 1865, 1,283; 1870, 1,434; 1875, 1,451; 1880, 1,477.

Organization.—The town of Richford was formed from Berkshire, first as the town of Arlington, April 9, 1831; its name being changed by act of legislature April 9, 1832. The town was duly organized, at the first town meeting, held at the Rich hotel, on Tuesday, March 6, 1832, when civil officers were duly elected, as follows: William Dunham, supervisor; John C. Steadman, town clerk; William Belden, Hubbard F. Wells, and Heman Daniels, commissioners of highways; Jacob Burget, Elijah Powell, and Tower Whiting, commissioners of common schools; Simeon R. Griffin, Israel Wells, and Edward W. Surdam, school inspectors; Nathaniel Johnson and William Raymond, overseers of the poor; Obadiah Livermore, collector; Hiram W. Tyler and Henry Talmage, constables; Seth B. Torrey, sealer of weights and measures; Platt F. Grow, Eri Osburn, and David C. Garrison, justices of the peace. The said meeting took further action, to wit:

"Voted, The town raise a sum of money equal to that drawn from the treasury.

"Voted, That we pay the Inspectors of Common Schools seventy-five cents per day, as compensation for their services.

"Voted, That hogs may be commoners by being rung sufficiently and yoked with a sufficient yoke; the yoke is to be twice the width of the neck above, and thirdth below.

"Voted, That no cattle nor hogs be commoners at any season of the year within one-half mile of the village of Richford.

"Voted, That O. L. Livermore be Poundmaster, and his yard be the Pound for the ensuing year.

"Voted, This meeting be adjourned to the house now kept by S. M. Crandal, on the 1st Tuesday in March, 1833."

Material and Mercantile Interests.—The prominent industrial interest of the town is agriculture in its various branches, particularly the dairy. The principal exports have been of live stock, hay, wool, pork and butter, chiefly the latter. No cereals are sent from the town, but recently the growing of potatoes for shipping has become a special industry. At present the resources of the farming community consists in potatoes, calves, and butter. Heretofore, lumbering in its various branches has been the most prominent pursuit in the eastern part of the town, a business that has died a natural death. The money paid for the lumber and bark has not materially enriched the town, not stopped therein, but been paid for merchandise brought from other parts, the locality serving simply as a camp.

Ezekiel Rich was the first to open a store in Richford. He commenced trade in 1821, and turned over the business to William Dunham, in 1823, who continued trade in the "Old Abby" until the corner brick building was completed, when he moved therein, about 1827. A few years later, Dunham vacated the brick store and opened a new store, situated on his experimental city plot, half-mile below, which went up with his visionary castle. While Mr. Dunham was yet trading in the Abbey, Gad Worthington erected a store about mid-way between C. L. Rich's residence and the public square. This was the first building erected in Richford to be used exclusively as a store, and he put in a stock of goods and commenced trade in 1825. Later Mr. Cook purchased the store of Worthington, and continued trade a few years.

About 1829, James Robins opened a store in the brick building vacated by Dunham, and his stock was of a greater variety and more complete than any store yet in the place. Robins continued business in the brick store until the present Rich's store was erected, in 1834, when he removed and occupied the new store, until 1844, when he sold to C. L. Rich and William Pierson. During the period of Robins's trading, there was not much competition, but while Rich & Pierson were trading, S. R. Griffin opened a store in the building now standing near the corner of the street leading to the depot. Later, he sold to Enoch Glezen, who occupied the store a few years, after which C. A. Clark, of Owego, opened the store, and later still Nathaniel Moore, of Berkshire, opened it and after trading a while sold to W. H. Powell and M. Westcott, who wound up the competition, leaving the field to C. L. Rich and sons with J. H. Deming. Before Mr. Robins opened his store, Doctor Seaman erected the building now occupied by W. F. Miller and by C. H. Swift, for use as a store, and he put therein a stock of goods and continued trade several years; and he run the only distillery ever put in operation here. In 1869, H. B. Rowley opened a store in the brick store, where he is still trading. About 1880, James S. Smith opened a store in the Rich block, and in 18— he sold his stock to W. C. Smith & Co.

In 1870, H. Tane and T. Brainard opened the old Seaman store a hardware and house furnishing store, with stoves and articles used about the house, together with the manufacture of tin, copper and ironware. The firm did business about three years, then made a general assignment to C. J. Robinson, who continued the business about three years and then closed it out.

In 1880, C. H. Swift opened a store and shop like that last mentioned, and in the same building, where he is still doing business.

One of the most popular stores is that owned and conducted by Mrs. Delos Yaple, in the Rich block. She has been in trade twelve or more years, carrying on millinery business in connection with her store.

At an early day Joseph Bayette (a Frenchman) came in the eastern portion of the town, settled and built a log house and manufactured cigars, then removed to Ithaca, returned in 1850, and, in the large building fronting the square, again commenced the manufacture of cigars. He was succeeded by his sons, who increased the business and employed twenty-five hands. They were succeeded by George and Edward Rich, sons of Chauncey Rich, and the business was continued until the spring of 1877, when it was discontinued.

C. L. Rich, who commenced clerking for Mr. Robins, in 1834, has been chief of the mercantile trade in Richford. He retired from trade, to accept the office of treasurer of the Southern Central Railroad, of which he has been not only treasurer but also one of the leading directors and stockholders. He conducted the financial business of the road with so much ability that it remained in first hands much longer than any other road in the state or elsewhere. Mr. Rich, his sons and brother-in-law, are bankers, the sons being at the head of a bank in Fort Dodge, Iowa, C. L. having retired from active business on the road and now lives at his home in Richford.

BUSINESS CENTERS.

RICHFORD VILLAGE is located in the southern-central part of the town, where the railroad crosses the old Catskill turnpike. It has one church, one hotel, two general stores, hardware store, furniture store, millinery and grocery store, a saw-mill and novelty works, grist-mill, two blacksmith shops, and about 250 inhabitants.

EAST RICHFORD is a small settlement in the eastern part of the town.

WEST RICHFORD is a small settlement in the western part of the town.

Prior to the establishment of a postoffice in Berkshire village, about 1824, the office nearest to Richford was at a point on the Creek road one and one half miles south of the boundary, between Berkshire and Newark, eight miles distant from Richford. The Richford postoffice was established in 1830, with William Dunham postmaster. He kept the office in his dwelling, the "Old Abby," the first house erected in the village; afterward the office was removed into the brick store on the corner, and O. L. Livermore, officiated as deputy postmaster. Later, Simeon Crandal was appointed postmaster, and he removed the postoffice from the brick store into the Rich hotel, of which he was innkeeper. Later still, C. L. Rich was appointed postmaster, and he removed the office from the hotel into the store where, excepting a few years (1862 to '66) the office has been kept to the present time. Mr. Rich was succeeded by J. H. Deming, and at the next change in the administration, Mr. Rich was re-appointed. Matthew Westcott was appointed later. In 1866, C. D. Rich was appointed, and later he resigned in favor of C. W. Finch. In 1886 C. A. Clark was appointed, and is the present incumbent.

During a long period, the mails were carried by stages running on the turnpike, leading from Catskill to Ithaca, also on the road from Homer to Owego. As the mail going east reached Catskill, it was transferred to steamboats plying on the Hudson, and would make the round trip via New York city in five days. The two-horse stage line from Homer to Richford was discontinued in 183–, and the four-horse stage line on the pike was discontinued at the time the New York and Erie railroad was opened as far as Owego, June 1, 1849. A two-horse stage continued to carry the mail from Lisle through Richford to Ithaca, during a few years, up to 1852. And a two-horse stage transmitted the mail daily from Richford to Owego and return, up to the opening of the Southern Central railroad.

In 1852 a postoffice was established in the town, under the title of "West Richford Postoffice," Erie Osborn, postmaster. In 1860, this office was discontinued.

MANUFACTORIES.

The history of mills in the town begins with the ones erected by Caleb Arnold; but the exact date cannot be ascertained, though it was probably 1813. He had a saw and grist-mill also wool-carding works, located on the West Owego creek, on lot 500. The saw-mill was rebuilt in 1835; the other mill run down long before, and Mr. Arnold had left. The next saw and grist-mill was erected by Gad Worthington, on the East creek, at a point not far south of the depot, in 1823–24. A few years later, William Dunham bought the mills, and allowed them to run down later. In 1831, Simeon R. Griffin erected a grist-mill some forty rods northwest of the junction of Aurora street with the old pike road. The motor power was water taken from the brook, led onto a thirty foot over-shot wheel. The mill did a good business until 1840. After Griffin ran it a few years, he sold to Enoch Gleazen, who sold to Mr. Torrey, who let the mill go down. About 1830, a Mr. Wells erected a saw-mill just north of the village. Later, Abram Deming became owner of, and rebuilt the mill, and after sawing millions of feet of pine lumber, sold to Elisha Hart, who sold in turn to William Cross; and afterward Henry

Geer owned and repaired the mill, and later William Allen became owner, allowing it to go down.

About 1830, William Pumpelly, of Owego, erected a saw-mill on his lands, two miles north of Richford village. Afterward the mill was owned by Milton Holcomb, John Gee, and finally got into Clinton Cleveland's hands, who rebuilt it, with a large circular saw, in place of the up-and-down saw. The mill is still in running order.

In 1850, Belden Brothers erected a saw-mill on their premises, some forty rods north of the highway bridge across the creek. The mill cut a vast quantity of lumber, and recently the supply of stock became exhausted, and the mill was abandoned.

In 1850, a saw-mill was erected on the creek a little south of Harford Mills, in this town. Subsequently, a factory for manufacturing sash, blinds and doors was erected beside the mill. The property is now owned by Mr. Granger.

In 1853, William Andrews built a steam saw-mill on lot 493, two and one-half miles east of the village, on the old pike road. It was the first steam motor used in the town. The mill was a costly structure, and ample in its capacity, had it been fittingly arranged; but only one sash-saw was put in operation. The manufacture of lumber, under the circumstances, could not be made a success, financially, and Mr. Andrews was forced to sacrifice and return to Connecticut, his former home. The mill was not put to much use, and some three years after its completion, it burned. A few years later, Jones & Hubbard erected a new steam-mill on this site, with a circular-saw; but the business still met with poor success, and after a few years the mill burned.

In the fall of 1870, Messrs. C. W. and H. S. Finch erected a steam saw-mill not far from the depot. A branch track is one of the appurtenances of the mill. The mill did an extensive business until September 12, 1871, when it took fire at midnight and burned, with all therein and about it. The owners at once rebuilt the mill, and again, October 31, 1879, at noon, the mill took fire, making a clean sweep of all therein and adjacent. Again the same owners promptly rebuilt, and the mill is now in operation. This mill is an institution very elaborate in machinery, whereby huge forest trees are wrought into articles for use, from a railroad bridge-beam one hundred feet in length, down to a clothspin; and all kinds of lumber required for building is dressed complete in finish, ready to be nailed in place. The mill is of a capacity equal to sawing 25,000 feet of lumber per day, and has been run nearly all the time since it started. This mill has been a success, financially. C. W. Finch runs the mill, and H. S. Finch, with J. Allen, are the lumber merchants.

In 1876, Franklin Bliss erected a steam mill for grinding feed and threshing grain, about one-fourth mile west of the village. The same year H. S. Finch put in a mill for grinding feed, attached to his provision store, near the depot. In 1884, Mr. Bliss shut down his mill, and purchased the mill owned by Finch, and added one more run of stones, and other first-class machinery for manufacturing best quality of buckwheat flour. In the fall of 1886, the mill took fire at noon, and burned. Nothing was saved pertaining to the mill, and a large stock of grain was lost. The mill was very promptly rebuilt and put in operation, and Mr. Bliss is doing a good business, manufacturing buckwheat flour, and ships large quantities to Philadelphia and other markets, besides grinding many car-loads of grain each year for the home market.

The saw-mill of J. W. Allen, located, on road 18, is operated by water-power and has the capacity for cutting 1,000,000 feet of lumber annually. The first mill built on this site was about 1830, by Milton Holcomb; but has from time to time been rebuilt, and for a short time steam was used in the mill. It is equipped with lumber-saw, double lath-saw, planing and matching machines, and employs six men.

CHURCHES.

There are but three meeting-houses in the town, one of which is not utilized, or only opened occasionally. Of the three churches formed within the town, but one seems to hold out prosperously, the original first church, the nucleus of which were Puritans of the Mayflower lineage, from Massachusetts. The church record fails, by reason of the imperfect manner it has been kept, to give a full or comprehensive history of the church from the first. Fortunately, there is one survivor, Deacon W. F. Belden, whose parents were of the few originators, and he has himself been a member during nearly three-score years, during which time he has kept a private record, to which we are indebted for much of the ecclesiastical history of the town.

The first settlers in Richford were mostly families from Lenox, Mass., among whom was Stephen Wells, a deacon of the Presbyterian church in Lenox, who commenced holding meetings in the new (first) school-house, in 1821. On December 4, 1821, the few inhabitants of Richford assembled in the school-house, in the evening, for the purpose of considering the subject of organizing a church society and the building of a meeting-house. At this meeting a society was duly formed, to be known as "The North Society of the Town of Berkshire." The meeting was adjourned, to meet at the house (hotel) of Ezekiel Rich, one week later, and from week to week to meet at said house. Finally, the meeting took action by passing a resolution to build a meeting-house in the summer of 1822, at an expense of five hundred dollars, "and, if a steeple is put on, the cost of the structure not to exceed seven hundred dollars." The house was erected as per resolution, and soon after, the Rev. Seth Burt, a missionary sent out by the Berkshire and Columbia (Mass). Missionary Society, becamee the pastor. On December 23, 1822, thirty-one of the inhabitants of Richford and vicinity banded themselves together as a society, entitled "The Society of Columbia," which title it still retains. On January 14, 1823, a Christian Church was duly organized, according to the order of Presbyterian faith, with forty-one charter members, of which twenty-two presented letters, and nineteen made confession of faith. One of the most devoted of the charter members, Mrs. Ezekiel Rich, united with the old church of Berkshire (prior to the formation of Newark), the first Sabbath in April, 1820, and in 1821, she removed from Newark Valley to Richford, where she presented a letter of membership. She was one who aided the organizing of the church, and the last of the forty-one to die—ever zealous, she was the last to leave the Richford church militant and join the church triumphant, on the 2d day of June, 1883, aged ninety-two years.

The church was connected with the Cayuga presbytery. The first delegation of elders sent from Richford were Dea. S. Wells, Thomas P. Brown, and Deodatus Royce. The church continued as a Presbyterian order until 1827, when the members unanimously resolved to change and adopt the Congregational form of discipline, and duly appointed delegates to go and inquire into the standing of the "Union Association;" also constituted delegates to attend a meeting of the presbytery for instructions, resolving to remain in the fold of the Presbytery on "the accommodation plan." November 2, 1827, the elders tendered their resignation, and the church became Congregational in form, but remained connected with the Presbytery until 1868, at which date, in October, the church connected itself with the Susquehanna Association, there being no change since.

In 1833, a church was formed in the town of Berkshire, as now bounded, and twelve of the members of the Richford church took letters to unite with the new organization at Berkshire village.

The first church edifice was erected on the site now occupied. The building was smaller in size than the last one built. Its style of architecture was Eastern, a steeple and bell, the latter still used. The front half of the steeple projected from the main edifice and rested on four large turned columns, having ornamental base and capitals. Internally, a gallery extended around on two sides and the rear end, forming a semi-circle, the central portion of which was occupied by the choir and a pulpit, the back of which was the inner wall of the vestibule. On the main floor were two aisles, between which were two tiers of seats, and on one side of either aisle was a row of seats in square sections, or "pews." The best of pine lumber was used in constructing the meeting-house; because the Lord had placed the material near at hand, His servants took it as His own, wherever found, without regard to the will of land-owners. In 1854, the old house was taken down and a new one of larger dimensions erected, and which has been rearranged internally and ornamented with a different style of steeple. The church-going people of early times here allude to the advent of "fire in meeting-houses." Furnaces and stoves were not then in use, and worshipers had to endure a severe ordeal when they attended meeting in winter; so after the stove came as a new blessing, warmth was a very grateful part of the meeting in cold weather.

The whole number in communion with the church up to February, 1875, was 278; the number at that date was, present and absent, seventy-three. In 1874, twelve took letters and joined other churches. At times there have been handsome accessions to the church; but death and emigration depleted the ranks to such an extent that augmentation permanently was scarcely possible.

Referring to the several pastors, Rev. Mr. Burt closed his term in 1825, leaving the church without a visable shepherd until 1827, when Rev. Henry Ford ministered one year. Rev. Mr. Cary occupied the pulpit a portion of the time up to 1829, at which date the Rev. David S. Morse became pastor, and continued such until April, 1833. Rev. Mr. Graves succeeded Mr. Morse, for a short period. In December, 1833, Rev. Mr. Ripley commenced preaching in the Richford church each alternate Sabbath, continuing up to April, 1835, when Mr. Morse returned and continued until 1840. During 1841, Rev. Mr. McEwen occupied the pulpit, and Rev. Mr. Babbitt during 1842, who was not succeeded until 1844, when Mr. Morse returned again, and continued pastor up to 1849. Then Mr. Page served from 1850 to 1851, when Rev. Jeremiah Woodruff officiated during a term of four years. In 1856, Rev. Mr. Worden, who was pastor of the Methodist church at Berkshire, occupied the pulpit here each alternate Sabbath In April, 1857, Rev. Richard Woodruff became pastor and served six years, less one month, when, after preaching three sermons one Sabbath, he died before morning, March 9, 1863, and was buried beside his wife in the cemetery at Richford. His age was sixty-two. In July, 1863, Rev. J. S. Hanna commenced a term of pastoral service, continued one year, and the year following Rev. David Gibbs served as pastor. In the winter of 1866, Mr. Morse served six months, also a six months' term in the winter of 1867. His whole term of service was about eighteen years. He was born in 1793, died in 1871, and lies buried in Richford cemetery. Mr. Morse was a man of superior understanding. In July 1868, Rev. George Porter, from England, became pastor, and served two years, less six weeks. In July, 1870, Rev. Mr. Green took charge, and served until May, 1873. Another vacancy then occurred, extending to November, 1874, when Rev. Mr. Thomas commenced and served two years. Rev. E.W. Fisher commenced April 1, 1878. The next pastor was A. D. Stowell, who commenced in June, 1880, and who was succeeded by Rev. E. P. Dada, in May, 1882; Rev. George Miller, in September 1884, and Charles Burgen, the incumbent pastor, commenced service May 1, 1887. The largest salary paid per year to any of the pastors employed was one thousand dollars, to Mr. Porter, for the first year. The Missionary Society has liberally contributed toward paying the salaries.

In 1823 a Sabbath-school was established in which there were sixty-five attendants, who resided within a territory stretching nine miles east and west and seven miles from point to point, north and south. Many who attended, found their way through the forest by blazed trees. Here it is worthy of mention, in paying honor due to faithful Christians, that a certain widow, Mrs. Gardner, and her two daughters, who resided on lot 418, on the border of the town of Berkshire, over two miles distant, were sure to be in attendance each Sabbath regardless of inclement weather. Their pathway to and from the meetings was over rugged, hilly ground, their course all the way marked only by blazed trees. The Sabbath-school has been well maintained to the present.

Of the early settlers in the town, a few were Episcopalians, who organized a church, and erected a small house on the site where now stands C. L. Rich's barn. It was built about 1832, and was removed to Speedsville, in 1843. No record of the proceedings of the Episcopalians in the town is obtainable; but memories relate some incidents.

In 1857, a society was formed which was styled "The Richford Hill Christian Church," and in 1860 they erected a house, in which to worship according to their creed. They have a clear title to a desirable rural site of ample dimensions, including a cemetery, in which are erected monuments, some of which are elaborate and costly. At one time the church numbered thirty or more members, but later it fell to zero; yet later still, a rally occurred and it recuperated, and now they have a shepherd who occupies the pulpit regularly, in connection with a neighboring society. Rev. Mr. Tyler officiates as pastor.

In 1864, a church society was duly organized in the eastern part of the town. Their creed was Baptist, and in 1870 they completed a church edifice. The number of members have not exceeded twenty-three. A portion of the time of their existence the vital spark seemed to wane to a low ebb. At present they have a joint interest in a minister who resides at a distance.

SPENCER* lies in the extreme north-western corner of the county, and is bounded north by the county line, east by Candor, south by Barton, and west by the county line. The town was formed by an act of the legislature passed February 28, 1806, receiving its name in honor of Judge Ambrose Spencer. At this time, however, it was a town of great extent, set off from Owego (now Tioga). From this large territory have been formed the towns of Candor, Caroline, Danby and Newfield, the latter three in Tompkins county, set off February 22, 1811; and Cayuta, in Schuyler county, organized March 20, 1824. Thus Spencer may truly be said to be a "mother of towns;" but these large concessions have shorn the parent town's territory to an area of only about 29,136 acres, 20,000 acres of which is improved land.

Topography.—The north-eastern portion of the town forms the water-shed between the Susquehanna river and Cayuga lake. The ridges have a general north and south direction, their declivities steep, and their summits broad and broken. Catatonk creek, flowing east, breaks through these ridges at nearly right angles, forming a deep and narrow valley. This is the principal stream, though there are numerous small tributaries to it. The soil is a gravelly loam in the valleys, and a hard, shaly loam upon the hills. Dairying, stock-raising, and lumbering are the chief pursuits of the people.

SETTLEMENT AND GROWTH.

Benjamin Drake, in connection with Joseph Barker, made the first settlement in the town of Spencer, in the year 1794. The place of his nativity is not known, and as none of his descendants are now living here, nothing of his early life, previous to settlement here, can be ascertained. He settled on the site of Spencer village, or what was for many years the village, the lower corners, as the north and west portions of the village have mostly been built up in comparatively a few years. Mr. Drake's first cabin was built of logs, poles and bark, near the bank of Catatonk creek, half, or three-quarters of a mile east of the village. His time was occupied in clearing his land, and when, after the labors of the day were over, and the shades of night had gathered around the humble home of the settlers, and they had retired to rest, their sleep was often disturbed by the howling and snarling of the wild beasts that inhabited the wilderness around them. Tradition says that Mr. Drake builtthe first frame dwelling-house in town, a part of which is standing on the spot where Andrew Purdy formerly resided, and known for many years as the "Purdy tavern," and now owned by the estate of Hon. Abram H. Miller. He also built the first grist-mill. How long he resided here, and the time or place of his death, is not known. His daughter, Deborah, was the first white child born within the present town limits.

Joseph Barker, as stated above, came to Spencer in the year 1794, from Wyoming, Pa. He settled on the place now owned by C. W. Bradley, a little north of the center of the village of Spencer, his land extending south of and including the old cemetery, which he partially cleared off and gave to the town as a public burial-place. At that early day there was no town organization, and consequently no town officers, common interests prompting the settlers to friendliness and a general effort to build up good society, and also to extend a cordial greeting and welcome to those who came to settle and make a home among them. But as their numbers increased, the necessity of forming such an organization became apparent, and it was effected in 1806, and the first town meeting was held April 1st, of that year, Mr. Barker being elected justice of the peace, an office he held till the election of Israel Hardy, in 1830. The first school was organized in Mr. Barker's house, but the date is not known. Many of his descendants are still living in this and adjoining towns. He was a man of strict integrity, and was respected and honored by all around him.

Edmond and Rodney Hobart, brothers, came from Canaan, Litchfield county, Conn., in the year 1795. Edmond settled on the farm now owned and occupied by James B. Hull, his brother Rodney going about a mile farther north, where he resided for many years, the place now being owned by Benjamin F. Lewis, excepting about four acres where the house stands, that is now owned by Mr. E. Signor. Edmond Hobart is said to have put in and harvested the first crop of wheat, and he also built the first saw-mill. His family consisted of seven children, five boys and two girls, and their conveyance from Yankee land to Spencer was a wagon drawn by oxen, and they were seventeen days on the road, making the third family in the town. Their oldest son, Prescott, while using the axe—the principal and most useful tool the settlers had—received a slight cut which terminated in lock-jaw, the first year they were here, his death being the first one in town. Charlotte, the oldest daughter, married Daniel McQuigg, of Owego, who purchased the homestead of the heirs, in 1815, (Mr. Hobart died in 1808) and it was kept in the family many years, his son Daniel occupying it till about the year 1844, when it was sold to Deacon James B. Hull, who now lives on it. Esther, the youngest daughter, married Horace Giles, of Owego, in 1814, and in a few months moved to Spencer, where the widow lived till her death, in 1832. Mr. and Mrs. Giles lived on the same farm for fifty-five years. He died December 16, and she, December 18, 1870, aged eighty and seventy-seven years, respectively. Two daughters and one son are now living, one, Charlotte Giles Converse, occupying the homestead.

Others came soon after the settlement was begun, but the exact date cannot now be ascertained. John and George K. Hall, from Westchester county, N. Y., came about 1798, and settled on a part of what for many years has been known as the John McQuigg farm. Soon after the year 1800, the arrivals became more frequent. Among them may be named the following: Joshua Ferris, from Westchester, Doctor Holmes, from Connecticut, and Stephen Bidlack, from Wyoming, in 1800; Henry Miller, Andrew Purdy, Thomas Mosher, C. Valentine, John and Leonard Jones, David and Richard Ferris, from Westchester county, N. Y., and George Watson, from Canaan, Conn., between that date and 1805; Truman, Joshua, Abram and Benjamin Cowell, brothers, came from Connecticut about 1807 or 1808; George Fisher and family, from Albany, N. Y., in 1810; Thomas Fisher and family came soon after, and settled in what has long been known as Fisher's Settlement, his wife being the first person to drive a horse from the settlement (now the village), through the woods to their home; Solomon Mead, Joseph Cowles, Alvin Benton, Thomas Andrews, H. Lotze, Joel Smith, Benjamin Jennings, Moses Reed, Levi Slater, Ezekiel Palmer and his son, Urban Palmer, came prior to 1815; Shubael Palmer and wife, with a family of six children, came in February, 1817, bringing both family and goods by oxen through woods and over hills, with roads such as is usually found at that time of the year. The next few years arrivals were numerous, and among them may be found the names of Dodd, Lake, Lott, Dean, Garey, French, Sackett, Riker, Vose, Harris, Bradley, Wells, Benton, Nichols, Adams, Casterline, Scofield, Swartwood and Butts.

Isaac, William and Daniel Hugg, brothers, came from Canaan, Conn., the first two in 1800, and Daniel four years later, and settled in that part of the town known for many years as Hugg Town, now called North Spencer. Isaac settled at the head of the pond, his land extending to the road leading from Spencer to Ithaca; but built his house and resided till his death, in 1837, where Horace Furman now lives. This family consisted of eleven children, six girls and five boys. The youngest daughter, Sophia, is still living, and is in good health for one who has seen eighty-four years.

William Hugg settled on the farm afterwards occupied by his brother, Daniel. His family consisted of twelve children, eight daughters and four sons, none of whom are now living. He only resided here three or four years, moving to West Danby, where he and his wife were both buried.

Daniel Hugg arrived in Spencer, in 1804, and settled on the farm previously occupied by his brother, William, where Frank Adams now lives, and resided there till the death of his wife, in 1849, after which he lived with his children till his death, in 1855, having been a resident of Spencer for fifty-one years. His family of six daughters and one son are all dead. At the organization of the First Congregational church, Daniel Hugg and Achsah Hugg, his wife, were two of the original members, and he was one of the first deacons, a title he retained till his death. The descendants of these three brothers can be counted by the score, and are not only to be found in Spencer and surrounding towns, but in several different States of the Union, and as far as known are honored and respected members of the communities in which they reside.

Rev. Phineas Spalding was born in Woodstock, Vermont, in 1759. While a mere boy he enlisted in the revolution, was present at the surrender of Burgoyne, saw him deliver his sword to his captors, and was one of the guard placed over the prisoners taken at that time. Afterwards, in the darkest hours of that terrible struggle, he joined that portion of the army with Washington, late in the autumn of 1777, and when the inclemency of the weather rendered it necessary to go into permanent winter quarters they marched for eight days, leaving marks from their bleeding feet upon the frozen ground, till they came to Valley Forge, where they spent the winter. Their cabins were made with the boughs of trees hung on sticks or poles, under which they would build their fires, and gather around them, poorly clothed, and many without blankets, coats or shoes, and often obliged to feed on horse meat, which, in consequence of their extreme hunger, seemed to taste sweeter than any meat they had ever eaten before. After leaving the army he married a Miss Rebecca Jacques, by whom he had three children, Rebecca, Phineas, and Polly, the latter of whom was only a few weeks old when Mrs. Spaulding died. After marrying again (Miss Susanna Hotchkiss), he removed to Whitehall, N. Y., where Nancy, Amy, and William were born. About 1796, he came to what was then called Tioga Point, and lived for one year on a place called the Shepard farm, during which time his son James was born. While living here, he came to Spencer and selected the place upon which he afterward settled his family, in the year 1798. The place has been known for many years as the John McQuigg place. Here, in the woods, the sturdy pioneer erected his log cabin, cleared his land, and made him elf and family a home, and soon had the satisfaction of seeing the growing crops, and also neighbors settling around him. Here three more children were added to Mr. Spalding's family, viz.: Susanna, Jesse, and Joseph. As neighbors increased, and he being the only male professor of religion in the town, he was impressed that duty called him to preach the gospel to those around him, and yielding to these convictions, he preached, in his own house, the first gospel sermon in the town, in 1799. At the organization of the Baptist church, in 1810, he was chosen deacon, licensed to preach, and in 1813, was ordained, and was for many years pastor of the church. Previous to this he removed to a farm about two miles south of West Danby, where he lived several years, and here Ebenezer and Betsey were born. Mrs. Spalding died there in 1832, after which he lived with his children. He died in 1838, aged seventy-nine years, at the residence of his daughter Amy (Mrs. Barker), at West Danby, and his remains repose in the old cemetery in Spencer. Three of his children are still living, Mrs. Amy Barker, at West Danby, N. Y., aged ninety-four years; Ebenezer, in Wisconsin, aged seventy-nine years; and Mrs. Betsey Cowell, at North Spencer, aged seventy-seven years. Those who have died lived most of them to be old, and were useful and honored citizens. Phineas died at Havanna, aged eighty-six years. Polly, the next oldest child, was married to John Underwood, and this was the first marriage in town. She died in Spencer, aged seventy-five years. Nancy moved to Ohio at an early day, and died in 1838. James died at West Danby. Joseph died in Washington, and William, where he had lived for many years, at Mottville, aged eighty-two years.

Albert was born in Greenville, May 12, 1803, married Anna, daughter of Levi English, and has two children, Adonijah and Mary A. (Mrs. Ira Patchen), of Danby. In 1834 he purchased the farm where he now lives, which was then a wilderness, with no building except an old saw-mill, built a few years previous, and which he has re-built, and has cut from 100,000 to 400,000 feet of lumber annually.

He was taken prisoner at the battle of Lundy's Lane, and after a period of confinement was discharged. When the war closed he retired to his farm, in the eastern part of the town of Spencer, where he spent the remainder of his life. His wife was Lydia Bates, who died, leaving no children.

Till the age of sixteen he attended the district school near his home, finishing his school days by several terms in Spencer and then in Ithaca. He taught school several terms, and at the age of twenty-one went to Elmira, N. Y., and in company with his brother, Seymour, commenced the manufacture of lumber, under the firm name of A. Seely & Bro. After eleven years in Elmira, they transfered their business to Spencer, purchased several acres of land near the G., I. & S. R. R. station, put up a large steam saw-mill, and went to work, employing at times two hundred men. In 1875 they erected a steam flouring-mill near their saw-mill, and this is now the only mill of its kind doing business in the town. Within a year or two, an addition has been made to it, in which the grinding is done by the roller process, and large quantities of the best flour are almost daily shipped to different parts of the country. In 1877, they commenced, in a small way, the mercantile business, which has enlarged till at present they occupy a large brick block, their stock including nearly everything needed or used in a farming or manufacturing community. In 1880, they built near their mills a large creamery, and it is now receiving the milk or cream from about 700 cows, brought from four or five towns and from three different counties. January 1, 1887, the partnership was dissolved, Seymour retiring and Alfred continuing the business alone. He worked on a farm summers and taught school winters, until the spring after he was of age, when he commenced the manufacture of tomb-stones, at East Spencer. He removed to the village in 1847, and continued in the business till his health gave out, in 1849. He, with his brother-in-law, commenced manufacturing tin-ware and selling stoves, in 1852, continuing in the business a few years, when he went to farming, working as he was able, until 1862, when he found employment in the store of Lucius Emmons, father of the Emmons Bros. He remained in their store five years, when he commenced business for himself, at the same place he now occupies. In April, 1867, without application or solicitation on his part, he received the appointment of postmaster, which office he held till October 17, 1885. He has been the recipient of many favors from the citizens of Spencer, having held the office of overseer of the poor, assessor, and supervisor. To the latter office he has been elected six times. He has been interested in the educational interests of the town nearly half a century, an advocate for free schools long before the enactment of our grand "free school law." While positive and decided in his views on all public questions, and free to express them in proper times and places, he is willing to concede the same right to others. He has always taken a decided stand against intemperance.

He attended the common schools till the age of eighteen, when he entered his father's store as clerk, which business he followed for different merchants till 1850, when he commenced business for himself, carrying a stock of dry goods and groceries, and continued till some time during the rebellion, when he sold his stock of goods and opened a drug store, the first one in town, which business he still continues. He now lives on the place formerly occupied by his father, has always lived and done business on, or very near, the spot where his father settled, in 1810.

and moved with his family from Bedford, N. H., to Spencer, in the fall of 1826, and purchased the farm on which he lived until his death, which occurred November 24, 1843. His wife, Anne Vose, died March 2, 1834. Their children were: Samuel Vose, born at Bedford, N. H., December 27, 1793. He came to Spencer from Bedford, about the year 1818, and died here, August 3, 1854. John Vose was born at Bedford, N. H., October 20, 1796. He came to this country with his brother, Samuel, about 1818, and died March 5, 1871. Jesse Vose was born at Bedford, N. H., May 23, 1801, and died in 1845. Charles Otis Vose was born at Bedford, N. H., May 1, 1807, and died May 31, 1829. Alfred Vose was born in Bedford, N. H., August 10, 1812. He moved to this town from Bedford, at the same time of his father; was reared and continued to live on the place purchased by his father, up to the time of his death, which occurred September 20, 1883.

Lucius Emmons was born in Hartland, Hartford county, Conn., April 31, 1810. In early life he worked on a farm, later did office work, and then started out as a peddler, to what was then called the West (New York state). He came to Spencer to live in the spring of 1839, and married Nancy, daughter of Roger Vose, July 4, 1839. They removed to Candor, thence to Simsbury, Conn., in the fall of 1841, and thence back to Spencer, in the spring of 1844, where he remained until his death. He immediately started in the mercantile business on a small scale, and being a peddler himself, he soon formed the idea of sending out peddlers, which he did on a large scale, and for many years carried on a large business in general merchandise. He was taken sick in 1856 with a complication of diseases, from which he had nearly recovered at the time of his death, which occurred March 19, 1864.

Lucius Edward Emmons, son of Lucius and Nancy Emmons, was born at Spencer, August 23, 1846. He attended school at the Spencer academy, and at the age of nineteen years commenced work on his father's farm. At the age of twenty-one years, August 23, 1867, he became a partner with his elder brother, A. S. Emmons, as dealers in general merchandise, under the firm name of Emmons Brothers, succeeding the firm of Mrs. L. Emmons & Son. September 15, 1872, he was married to Cornelia M. Hull, daughter of Eben Hull, of Spencer. On a spot made vacant by a large fire, and owned by said firm, they erected, in the fall of 1876 and succeeding winter, a three-story brick drug store, and after the loss of their wooden structure (general store), on the opposite corner, they erected, in 1878, a large store of brick to carry on the same business. On April 23, 1880, the firm purchased of Dr. William H. Gregg, of Elmira, the formulas for and exclusive right to manufacture Electro-Silicon liniment, also Dr. Shorey's Investigator remedies, which medicine business they conducted under the name of the Electro-Silicon Liniment Co. On September 1, 1886, the firm of Emmons Brothers was dissolved by mutual consent, and by the expiration of the contract; L. E. Emmons continuing the drug business in the same store before used for that purpose. His children are Charlie Hull Emmons, aged eleven years; Freddie Earl Emmons, aged seven years, and Jessie Nell Emmons, aged six years.

Myron B. Ferris was born in Spencer, April 22, 1835, son of Joshua H. and Louisa (Fisher) Ferris. He studied in the Spencer Academy, and graduated from the Ithaca High School in 1849. He soon after began the mercantile business in Spencer, and continued in the same about twenty years, and upon the establishment of the bank here he became its assistant cashier, a position he still holds. Mr. Ferris has represented the town in the board of supervisors four years in succession, and represented his county in the legislature of 1873. Mr. Ferris married Hannah M. Cooper, daughter of Jessie B. Cooper, in 1853, and has three children, Nathan B., Stella L., and F. Harry.

The comparative growth of the town may be seen by the following citation from the several census enumerations since its organization: 1810, 3,128; 1820, 1,252; 1825, 975; 1830, 1,278; 1835, 1,407; 1845, 1,682; 1850, 1782; 1855, 1,805; 1860, 1,881; 1865, 1,757; 1870, 1,863; 1875, 1,884; 1880, 2,382.

Organization.—At a town-meeting held at the inn of Jacobus Schenichs, Tuesday, April 1, 1806, the following named officers were elected: Joel Smith, supervisor; Joshua Ferris, town clerk; Edmond Hobart, Daniel H. Bacon, Levi Slater, assessors; Moses Read, Benjamin Jennings, Joseph Barker, commissioners of highways; Lewis Beers, Samuel Westbrook, overseers of the poor; Isaiah Chambers, collector; John Shoemaker, Nathan Beers, William Cunan, John Murphy, and Isaiah Chambers, constables; John F. Bacon, John McQuigg, John Mulks, Jacob Swartwood, poundmasters; John I. Speed, John English, Joseph L. Horton, Jacob Herinton, Alexander Ennes, and Lewis Beardslee, fence-viewers.

The history of Spencer as the county-seat, the history of its railroads and newspaper, has already been given, in the general history of the county, in the earlier pages of this work.

BUSINESS CENTERS.

SPENCER VILLAGE is located on Catatonk creek, west of the center of the town, and on the G. I. & S. and the E. C. & N. railroads. From 1812 to 1821, it was the county-seat of Tioga county. It contains three churches, the old camping-ground of the Wyoming Conference, one union school or academy, six dry-goods and grocery-stores, two hardware-stores, two drug-stores, one agricultural store, two hotels, one livery-stable, one steam saw and grist-mill, one planing-mill, one plaster-mill, one marble-factory, eight blacksmith-shops, three wagon shops, two cabinet-shops, three millinery-shops, three shoe-shops, two tailor-shops, one paint-shop, two harness-shops, one dental office, three doctors' offices, two undertaking establishments, one photograph parlor, one meat-market, one job printing office, about one hundred and thirty-five dwelling-houses, and seven hundred inhabitants. The busy mills, the large number of neat and commodious private residences, with well-kept grounds attached, and the highly-cultivated fields surrounding the village, attest that the inhabitants have not forgotten the thrift, habits of industry, and economy which characterized their forefathers from Connecticut and Eastern New York.

SPENCER SPRINGS, lying three miles northeast of Spencer village, has valuable springs of sulphur and chalybeate mineral waters. The surroundings are picturesque, and it has been quite popular as a resort during the summer months.

NORTH SPENCER, about three and one-half miles north of Spencer, contains one church (Union), one school-house, a store, about twenty dwelling-houses, and one hundred inhabitants.

COWELL'S CORNERS, a hamlet on Catatonk creek, about one and one-fourth miles east of Spencer, contains a school-house, a shoe-shop, two cooper-shops, and about forty inhabitants.

The Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Spencer was incorporated in March, 1884, with a paid-up capital of $25,000.00. The first officers were M. D. Fisher, president; O. P. Dimon, vice-president; C. P. Masterson, cashier. The present officers are Thomas Brock, president; O. P. Dimon, vice-president; M. D. Fisher, cashier; and M. B. Ferris, assistant cashier.

Spencer Creamery, S. Alfred Seely Proprietor.—The Spencer Creamery was established in 1880, by Hoke & Seely, and is located in the western part of the village, on Liberty street. At present they are manufacturing from the product of 700 cows, and are doubling their capacity yearly. All their equipments are of the latest and most improved patents. They run two DeLaval cream separaters, a steam butter-worker, and all the improved steam-power machinery, which is used in the manufacture of butter. They also manufacture cheese from skimmed milk. There are one hundred hogs and thirty calves fed at the creamery. Beside supplying families with the choicest butter, they ship to New York twice and three times a week. Last year they manufactured over 60,000 pounds. The creamery is under the superintendence of Mr. D. LaMont Georgia.

S. A. Seely's Flour and Custom Mill is situated on Mill street, near the G., I. & S. R. R. depot, and was built in October, 1873, by A. Seely & Bro. It was started with three runs of stones, and did at that time custom work, principally. In 1879, it was renovated and enlarged, another run of stones added, and also machinery necessary for making the new process flour. In the spring of 1886, it was again enlarged, and machinery added, making it a full-fledged roller-mill. The capacity of the roller department is seventy-five barrels in twenty-four hours. A specialty is made of buckwheat grinding, according to the new process, manufacturing flour from 45,000 to 50,000 bushels annually. Three men are employed, with James Silke, superintendent. Mr. Seely's large steam saw-mill, the largest in the state, has already been spoken of in detail.

Brundage's Carriage and Wagon Works.—De Witt C. Brundage came to Spencer when about eighteen years of age, and learned the trade of carriage and wagon making, serving an apprenticeship of three years with George Rosekrans. He bought the business of Rosekrans and has since run it almost continuously, at the same stand, in Van Etten street. He manufactures wagons, sleighs, and carriages, of the most approved styles, and does all kinds of repairing in the neatest and most workmanlike manner.

J. T. McMaster's Steam Saw-Mill, located on road 53, is operated by a fifty horse-power engine. It has a lumber-saw, lath-mill, wood-saw, and edger, and also a feed-mill, run by the same power. He employs twelve men, and cuts annually 800,000 feet of lumber and 500,000 lath.

Samuel Eastham's Saw-Mill, located on road 36, is operated by water-power, employs twelve men, and cuts from 800,000 to 1,000,000 feet of lumber annually. He has also a hay-barn where he presses hay, and ships 1,000 tons annually.

Richardson & Campbell's Brick Yard, located on road 43, was established in 1882. The clay is first-class. The firm employs thirty-five hands, and have capacity for the manufacture of 3,000,000 brick annually.

CHURCHES.

The First Congregational Church was organized November 23, 1815, with seven members, as follows: Daniel Hugg, Achsah Hugg, Urban Palmer, Lucy Palmer, Stephen Dodd, Mary Dodd, and Clarissa Lake. Until the year 1828, the society met in dwelling-houses, school-houses, and the court-house, the pulpit being supplied by missionaries. Rev. Seth Williston was the first missionary, he having been sent out by the Congregationalists of Connecticut. Rev. Gardner K. Clark was the first regularly installed pastor. The church edifice was commenced July 3, 1826, and completed two years later. It is of the style usually erected for houses of worship in the country fifty years ago. It cost $2,500, and has sittings for about 400 people. Recently the building, through the munificence of Mr. Kennedy, has been extensively repaired and embellished.

The Methodist Episcopal Church was organized in 1809, by Peter Lott and his wife, Jeremiah Andrews, Esther Dean, Abraham Garey, and Hester Ann Purdy. For many years the society was supplied by circuit preachers of the Oneida Conference, who came once in four weeks. They held meetings in private houses, barns, and school-houses until 1828, when the present church was completed. It cost $2,800, and will seat 450 people. Rev. Morgan Rugar was the first resident pastor. Rev. Loring P. Howard is the present one. This church, too, has recently been extensively repaired.

The Baptist Church.—Phineas Spalding was the founder of this society, and preached to his brethren as early as 1799. The society was more formally organized by Elder David Jayne, February 11, 1810, and consisted of fifteen members, as follows: Phineas Spalding, Susannah Spalding, John Cowell, Deborah Cowell, Thomas Andrews, Jemima Andrews, Joseph Barker, Phebe Barker, Mehitable Hubbard, William Hugg, Lydia Hugg, Polly Underwood, Benjamin Cowell, Benjamin Castalin, and Ruth Castalin. Its first church was erected about 1830, and located one mile east of the village. The present one was completed in 1853, costing, with the alterations since made, about $4,000. It is the largest church in the village of Spencer, seats 700 in the audience-room, and 300 in the Sunday-school room.

The Union Church at North Spencer was organized, with thirty members, in 1870, and its church edifice, which will seat 275 people, was erected the same year, at a cost of about $1,500.

TIOGA originally embraced the boundaries of what is now denominated asthe town of Tioga, together with much other territory, and was distinctively organized into a township by an act of the legislature passed March 22, 1788, erecting the so-called "Old Town of Chemung," which was bounded as follows:

"Beginning at the intersection of the partition line between New York State and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the Pennsylvania State line, (west of Elmira); and running from said point of intersection due north along said partition line to the distance of two miles north of the Tioga [now Chemung] river; thence with a straight line to the Owego river [creek], at the distance of four miles on a straight line from the confluence thereof with the Susquehanna river; thence down the Owego [creek] and Susquehanna to the Pennsylvania line; thence along the same to the place of beginning."

It will be seen then, that the northern, eastern and southern boundaries of the Old Town of Chemung were identical with the present like boundaries of the town of Tioga. This territory remained a part of the Old Town of Chemung, until the act of the legislature was passed, February 16, 1791, creating the county of Tioga. By that act, about one-half of this Old Town of Chemung, comprising the easterly half, with some other territory on the north, was erected into a new town, called Owego, which name it continued to bear until the act of the legislature of April 12, 1813, dividing the counties of the state into towns. Prior to the act of 1813, the territory next immediately east of the Owego creek, or the present town of Owego, was known as the town of Union, until April 1, 1800, when, by virtue of an act of the legislature passed March 14, 1800, a new and separate town was formed from the territory next east of the Owego creek, and called the Town of Tioga, which name it also bore until the act of 1813. By the act of April 12, 1813, the names of these two towns, Owego on the west of the Owego creek, Tioga on the east thereof, were exchanged one for the other, as they now are. Each of these towns, however, originally included much other territory than that embraced within their present limits, other towns having been subsequently erected from them.

This town (Owego, from 1791–1813; Tioga, from 1813 to the present), originally was bounded on the east by the Owego creek, and a line running from the mouth thereof to the Pennsylvania state line; on the south, by the Pennsylvania state line; on the west, by the Cayuta creek; and on the north by the north bounds of the original Tioga county. The town of Spencer, then including the present town of Candor, was erected out of this town, February 28, 1806, and embraced all of that part of the town lying north of the Old Chemung Township line. So that, as respects the northern boundary of the town, it again became identical with that which it was when the town formed a part of the Old Town of Chemung, and it still is so. The town was again divided, by an act of the legislature passed March 23, 1824, and the towns of Nichols and Barton were erected from it, and the town was territorially reduced to itspresent limits. The southern boundary thereof was restored to the Susquehanna river, and in this respect also was again made identical with that which it was when a part of the Old Town of Chemung.

The present boundaries of the town are as follows: Easterly, by the Owego creek, which separates it from the town of Owego; southerly, by the Susquehanna river, which separates it from the town of Nichols; westerly, by a line drawn from the mouth of Mundy's creek, northerly to the southwest corner of great lot number 171, in the old Chemung township; thence along the line of said lot to the north bounds of the town, or by the town of Barton; and northerly, by the old Chemung township line, or by the towns of Candor and Spencer. It is the only interior town of the county, that is, the only one which is not bounded by territory lying without the county.

Surface.—Topographically considered, the town of Tioga includes 35,805 acres. Its surface is principally uplands, with small areas of river-bed flats. The soil in the valleys and on the river-beds is a dark loam, and on the uplands a gravel loam. Its chief water-courses are Pipe and Catatonk creeks. There are, however, several other smaller streams, which empty either into these creeks, or into the Susquehanna river. Pipe creek is made up of two branches, the northern and the western; the northern branch rising in the town of Candor, and flowing nearly due south, and the western branch, rising in the town of Barton, and flowing nearly due east, meet in junction at Beaver Meadows, and flowing thence in a southeasterly course, empty into the Susquehanna at Tioga Center, near the center of the southern boundary. It is the real great water-course of the town. The Catatonk creek, entering from the town of Candor, flows in a southeasterly course across the northeast portion of the town, and empties into the Owego creek, midway of the eastern boundary of the town, and about two miles from the Susquehanna river.

The chief pursuit of the inhabitants of the town now is agriculture. In former times lumbering was one of the great avocations; but the timber has been so nearly cut down and the lands so thoroughly cleared, that there remains at this day, only a vestige of the former extensive industry.

Settlement and Growth.—The territory occupied by the old town of Chemung, was surveyed and platted by Clinton, Cantine, and Hathorn. Certificates of location and survey were granted in the present town of Tioga, as follows: To Isaac D. Fowler, Jacob Ford, Peter W. Yates, Josiah Richardson, and Thomas Klump, June 23, 1789, 8,000 acres on the river bank, and forming nearly a square now known as "Yates Location," Tioga Centre being in that tract; Archibald Campbell, same date, 3,000 acres, two islands included, lying north of "Yates Location" on the river-bank, and on Owego creek to confluence of the Catatonk creek; Thomas Palmer, same date, 3,000 acres, and 418 acres in the south part of the town, west of Smithboro; Jonas Poirs and Benjamin Koles, November 12, 1788, 540 acres where Smithboro now is, and this was assigned to Jesse Smith, February, 1789; Abraham Bancker, November 6, 1788, lot 188, 1,000 acres, assigned to John Ransom, February 28, 1792; James and Robert R. Burnett, January 15, 1789, lot 204, of 1,360 acres; Amos Draper and Jonas Williams, November 12, 1788, lot 160, 330 acres; Jesse Miller, Thomas Thomas, and Enos Canfield, same date, 2,765 acres; Samuel Ransom, same date, lot 162, 410 acres; Nathaniel Goodspeed, same date, lot 163, 430 acres; Silas Taylor, same date, lot 164, 230 acres; Samuel Ransom, Ebenezer Taylor, Jr., Prince Alden, Jr., Andrew Alden, Christopher Schoonover, and Benjamin Bidlack, same date, lot 165, 1,980 acres, assigned October, 1790, to Samuel Ransom; Ebenezer Taylor, Jr., William Ransom, Abijah Marks, Samuel Van Gorden, Benoni Taylor, and John Cortright, November 13, 1788, lot 166, 2,400 acres; James Clinton, George Denniston, Alexander Denniston, and others, November 6, 1788, lot 167, 3,000 acres, with all islands in Owego river opposite said lot; and to James Clinton, James Humphrey, William Scott, and James Denniston, lot 168, 4,000 acres; Brinton Paine, November 13, 1788, lot 169, 800 acres; Peter A. Cuddeback, Peter Cantine, Peter Jansen, and Elisha Barber, November 6, 1788, lot 172, 4,000 acres; William and Egbert De Witt, March 4 1791, a lot of land containing 1,600 acres.

It seems to be conceded, generally, that among the earliest pioneers within the limits of the present town of Tioga, were Samuel and William Ransom and Prince and Andrew Alden. Samuel and William Ransom were sons of Samuel Ransom and Esther, his wife. This elder Samuel Ransom was a captain in the Continental army, and was killed July 3, 1778, at the historical massacre of Wyoming. These four persons came up the Susquehanna river, from Wyoming Valley, and made a settlement in the town about the year 1785. William Ransom and Andrew Alden settled a short distance south of the mouth of Pipe creek, upon the westerly bank of the river, where they built a log house, supposed to have been the first structure of the kind erected in the town.

In his "Centennial History," Hon. W. F. Warner, however, inclines to the opinion that there were transient settlers here earlier, remarking as follows:

"The late Judge Avery was clearly in error in stating that there was no settlement of the white race in the county earlier than 1783 or '84. In a journal kept by Lieut. Van Hovenburg, who accompanied Gen. James Clinton in the expedition down the Susquehanna to join Sullivan in 1779, mentions that 'the division marched ten miles from Owego down the river and encamped at Fitz Gerrel's farm.' This establishes the fact that as early as 1779, there was a settler either in the town of Tioga or Nichols.

"In the journal of Daniel Livermore, another officer, is the following entry: 'Saturday, August 21. This morning the troops march early, make but few halts during the day: at 5 p. m. encamp on the banks of the —— river, opposite —— farm, about seventeen miles from Owego.' Another journal described it as 'an abandoned plantation.'

"These are sufficient, however, to prove that at a much earlier period than has heretofore been claimed, there were settlers along the river. A settlement was made in the Wyoming Valley in 1769, and doubtless about the same time there were a few in this county, though they may have been forced to leave by reason of the disturbed state of the country during the revolution."

Samuel Ransom and Prince Alden settled about two miles further down the river, nearly opposite of Spendley's high bridge over the New York, Lake Erie & Western, and the Southern Central railway tracks. Of the ancestral history of the Alden brothers, nothing is known. Andrew Alden removed to the State of Ohio, about the year 1808, and Prince Alden died about the same year. Samuel Ransom was born September 28, 1759, at Canaan, now Norfolk, Ct.; married, in 1783 or 1784, to Mary Nesbitt, near Plymouth, Pa., and was drowned in the Susquehanna river, near Tioga Center, by the upsetting of a skiff, about the year 1807. His widow and seven children subsequently moved West, where they died. During his life-time, Samuel Ransom built on his land the first tavern, and the first schoolhouse in the town. The tavern was situate a very few rods east of Spendley's high bridge, upon the highway. It was a log structure, but afterward a framed addition was built on to it. A few years before he died, he became involved financially, and dying, left but little property to his family. William Ransom was born May 26, 1770, at Canaan, now Norfolk, Ct.; married, in 1792, Rachel Brooks, daughter of James and Mary Brooks, at Tioga Center. This was the first marriage in the town of Tioga. William Ransom died in Tioga Center, January 8, 1822, leaving a widow and ten children, another child of theirs having died in infancy. Nine of the ten children have descendants living. These children of Major William Ransom make up the Tioga branch of the Ransom family, and the following is their genealogical record: Ira, born December 4, 1792; married, January 22, 1814, Sarah Forman, at Nichols, N. Y., and died June 1, 1848, at Wysox, Pa. Sybil, born August 14, 1794; married, February 1, 1816, Henry Light, at Smithboro, and died there April 15, 1877. David, born October 14, 1796; died unmarried, May 9, 1827, at Philadelphia, Pa. Benjamin, born September 26, 1799; married, July 7, 1821, Lucy Frost, at Tioga Center, and died there, January 18, 1830. William, born April 9, 1801; married, September 14, 1831, Angeline Martin, at Owego, and died at Tioga Center, February 7, 1883. Rachel, born August 23, 1803; married, January 23, 1823, David Wallis, at Tioga Center, and is still living upon the Wallis homestead, in the town of Tioga. Charles, born September 19, 1805; married, October 2, 1832, Hope Maria Talcott, at Owego, and died August 12, 1860, at Tioga Center. Printice, born September 17, 1807; married, October 19, 1830, Fanny Thurston, at Owego, and is still living, at Iowa City, Ia. Harriet, born August 15, 1809; married, May 19, 1840, Asa Guildersleeve Jackson, at Tioga Center, and died there, June 4, 1847. Charlotte, born April 13, 1811; died, June 26, 1811, at Tioga Center. Mary Johnson, born November 24, 1812; married, January 29, 1833, Gilbert Strang, at Tioga Center, and died there, June 9, 1872.

The next advent of settlers appears to have been Lodowyck Light, Jesse Miller, the elder, and Enos Canfield, who came from the vicinity of Bedford, Westchester county, and located upon a tract of five hundred acres, known as the "Light & Miller Location," next west of where Samuel Ransom located, extending southwesterly well toward the village of Smithboro. They came on, made clearings and built their houses in about the year 1787, and brought on their families about the year 1790. Lodowyck Light first built a small cabin, upon a small knoll nearly directly across the road from the residence of the late Henry G. Light, and soon afterwards built his log house near the site of the latter, near the old well thereon, where he lived until his death, August 26, 1830, being a month and four days past seventy-eight years of age. His wife, Martha, died September 28, 1842, four months and four days past eighty-six years of age. The remains of these venerable pioneers lie buried in the old burying-ground, upon the top of the hill, about one mile east of Smithboro village. This old burying-ground is now in a sorry state of dilapidation, and its condition ought to be improved at once for the sake of its preservation. This is also the site of the first meeting-house in the town of Tioga, built in 1812, by the Methodist and Baptist denominations. It was destroyed by lightning in the summer of 1826; and there are those who are so irreverent as to say that, it was the meet judgment of the wrath of God, because of the intensity of the denominational jealousies and unchristian differences between the two church organizations. Lodowyck Light was a prominent citizen, and took an active part in the political affairs of his day.

Jesse Miller, the elder, built his log cabin upon the site of the old Miller homestead, very near where Thomas Watkins now lives, a few rods east of the residence of Amos Canfield. His wife's name was Kesiah, and they had four sons—Jesse, Jr., Ezra, Ziba and Amos; and several daughters, among whom were Jerusha, Lucy and Polly. Jesse Miller, Sr., died April 9, 1812, at the age of sixty-four years. Jesse Miller, Jr., removed West, and died there. Ezra, Ziba and Amos spent their lives in the town of Tioga, where they died, all of them leaving descendants, among the most venerable of whom is Mrs. Lucy Brooks, daughter of Amos Miller, and widow of Benjamin V. Brooks. She now lives with her children in Owego village, and has passed the very ripe age of eighty four years. The wife of Amos Miller was Polly Jayne, daughter of the Rev. David Jayne, who was the first preacher of the town, and who is said to have begun his ministerial work here as early at least as 1795.

Enos Canfield settled and built a log house near the present residence of Amos Canfield, his son, and lived there until he died, December 14, 1822, aged fifty five years, ten months and seventeen days. His wife was Polly (Robinson) Canfield, and she died May 7, 1849, at the ripe age of eighty-three years, ten months and nine days. Enos Canfield was a promient citizen, and took an active part in the church affairs of his day, being a staunch adherent of the Baptist orthodox faith. There were fourteen children born to this couple, of whom Amos Canfield still survives, and was eighty-eight years of age in March, 1887. The latter married Ellen Knapp, and the fruit of their marriage has been nine children, now living.

Ezra Smith also immigrated into this town from Westchester county, about the year 1791, and settled at the point where the village of Smithboro is. The land in that vicinity had been granted by the state to Poirs & Koles prior to that time, and by them assigned to Jesse Smith, a brother of Ezra. Ezra Smith kept the tavern situate near where the store building of Walter C. Randall now stands. He removed to the town of Candor, about the year 1809, and was succeeded by Isaac Boardman.

Colonel David Pixley was a pioneer, who had made exploring and surveying expeditions through this country, in the interest of the proprietors of the Boston Purchase, and finally settled in this town, just south of the Owego creek, on what is called the Campbell location. He built his log house near where Ephraim Goodrich now resides, and a portion of the old structure is still standing. In 1802, he sold his property in this town to Noah and Eliakim Goodrich, and removed to Owego. A more extended sketch of Colonel Pixley will be found in the history of the town of Owego.

Dr. Samuel Tinkham settled in the town about the same time as Colonel Pixley, on the place now owned by A. J. Goodrich. He was a physician, and married Colonel Pixley's sister, Polly.

Abner Turner, of New Hampshire, who also accompanied Col. Pixley upon his exploring expeditions in the interest of the proprietors of the Boston Purchase, settled near the east line of the town, and opened a tavern. He died upon his homestead in this town.

Another notable family of early settlers was the Brooks family. Three brothers, James, John, and Cornelius, it is stated, their father having died in the old country, emmigrated from Dublin to this country. Their widowed mother died upon the voyage, and was buried at sea. John and Cornelius settled, one in Massachusetts, the other in New Jersey. James Brooks married Polly Johnson, in New Jersey, and settled in this town in 1791, on the old Brooks homestead, upon the corner opposite where the Independent Order of Good Templers' lodge building now is, in Tioga Center, near the house owned by Jerome Schoonover. The exact locality is marked by the old Brook's well, at that point. James Brooks died in 1810, and had five sons,—Cornelius, David, John, Benjamin, and James, Jr. Cornelius took up his location and built a log house in the orchard between the Susquehanna river and the railways, opposite the blackwalnut tree, just west of the present residence of Theodore Horton. He subsequently moved West, and died at Olean, N. Y. David Brooks married Susan Allen, and lived in a log house upon the bank of the Susquehanna river, opposite the present residence of James Higbee, near the DuBois hay barn. He subsequently removed to Michigan, where he died. John Brooks built a tavern near the well, by the present residence of Samuel Kuykendall, which he kept for a few years, and then removed to Cincinnati, O. James Brooks married Amy, daughter of Lodowyck Light, and for a while lived in a house near the residence of Judson Gardner, at Tioga Center, having taken up twenty-five acres of land there. He afterward enlisted in the war of 1812, and was killed while in the service. His widow, Amy, subsequently built a framed house upon the top of the hill, immediately west of the residence of the late Henry G. Light, and lived there. Three children were born of this marriage, Chloe, Benjamin Van Campen, and Patty.

In 1820, Chloe Brooks married John H. Yontz, who came into this vicinity from Virginia, about 1818, and for a long time was a prominent citizen of Smithboro and Tioga Centre. He died in 1875. His widow is still living at Smithboro, and is now eighty-six years of age, with mental vigor unimpaired.

Benjamin V. Brooks married Lucy, daughter of Amos Miller, as has been stated before, and was for a long time a leading and prominent citizen of Smithboro, engaged in the industrial pursuits of farming and lumbering. He died December 27, 1873, at Owego, leaving his widow, and the following children: Horace Agard, Mrs. E. A. B. Mitchell, Chester, Mandana, and Chloe M.

Benjamin Brooks, son of James, married Patty Stowe, and lived in a double log house on the original Brooks homestead, at the old well, near the house now owned by Jerome Schoonover, as aforesaid. Four children survived him, of whom Ira and James are dead, and Mary Ives, living in Illinois, and Conelius Brooks, living at Tioga Centre, at the ripe old age of seventy-seven years.

Francis Gragg also immigrated into this town at a date uncertain, but supposed to be prior to 1800. He came originally from Schomokin Creek, Pa. His wife, Margaret, came with him. They moved into the old tavern built by John Brooks, upon the site of the residence of Samuel Kuykendall, and lived there until 1819, when they moved into an old house which stood almost exactly upon the site of the present house of Charles C. Van Norstran, where he lived the rest of his live. Margaret Gragg died July 26, 1824, and Francis died April 15, 1854. They are buried in the Van Norstran vault, about one mile west of Tioga Centre. They had only one child, Sally, who married John Van Norstran. Mr. Van Norstran also originally came from Shamokin Creek, Pa., and July 20, 1819, he moved into the Brooks-Gragg tavern, and was the proprietor of it until he died, June 6, 1837. Sally, his wife, died December 30, 1873. Eight children were born of this union, of whom John, Silas, Frank, Margaret, and William, are dead; and James, Charles C., and Mrs. Eliza Coburn (widow of Charles R. Coburn), are living.

Joel Farnham, who was a native of Wyoming and there at the time of the famous Indian massacre, located upon the old Farnham homestead, off road 12, about the year 1794, and died here August 15, 1858, aged over eighty-four years. Barclay, who bore him five children, Joel S., Alice L. (Mrs. George H. Day), Elisha W., Herbert A. and May E. Mr. Farnham died February 21, 1887, and his widow still occupies the old homestead.

He was a good mechanic, and was the first husband of Mrs. Whitaker, who was taken captive at Wyoming in 1778, when twelve years of age, carried to Canada, kept two years, then released and sent home. He removed to Catatonk Creek, and died suddenly, in 1805, from injuries received in a mill.

William Taylor accompanied James McMaster to Owego, in 1785, as a bound boy. After planting and securing a crop of corn, they returned to their headquarters on the Mohawk. Jacob Catlin, son of Nathaniel Catlin, said he used to hear Amos Draper tell of McMaster's raising corn and the Indians watching and caring for it in his absence, and who, at the harvesting of the same, received from him a share of the crop. He cut dead pines on the bank of the creek, felled them into the water, bound them together with withes, forming a raft, on which he put his corn and floated it down the river to Wilkesbarre to mill. Mr. Taylor did not return to Owego until 1793, and soon after came to this town and occupied the Henry Young farm. In 1800, he made arrangements to sell his property, and in 1801, removed to Candor, and died in 1849, aged eighty-two years. Nathaniel came from Orange county in 1800, and decided to purchase the farm of William Taylor, and in 1801 brought his family and completed the purchase.

Daniel Mersereau emigrated from Staten Island, in 1794, and settled where Brindley Wallace now lives. He was impressed by the English, taken on board a vessel, and kept several days, but by interference of friends was released. He died in 1848, aged eighty-six years.

Daniel, born March 18, 1809, married Fidelia Frisbie, who bore him six children, Chester, Mary, Charlotte, Ezra, Frederick and Edwin. Ezra moved to Tioga in 1866, and now resides on road 12. He married Laura Gould, in January, 1866, and has three children. Marshall married Hannah Harris, who bore him eight children, James M., Stephen, Mariette, Albert, Amos, John, Eliza and Enos. James M. came to Tioga, in 1880, from Candor, and resides on road 12. He married Mary H. Easton and has two children living, Willis D. and John J.

Harris Jewett, born at Chenango Forks, N. Y., October 18, 1804, and located in Berkshire in 1830, upon the farm now owned by Walter Jewett. In 1854, he moved to Tioga, locating upon the farm he now occupies, on road 9. Mr. Jewett married Lucinda Ford, September 11, 1832, who bore him five children, three of whom are living, viz.: Charles F., born October 2, 1834; William A., born June 20, 1842; and Henry M., born October 24, 1850. Mrs. Jewett died July 21, 1868.

Lewis Lounsbury, from Connecticut, born February 21, 1794, was the first settler upon the farm now occupied by Mrs. Mary Lounsbury, in 1815. He married Charry Clark, December 12, 1816, who bore him eight children, five of whom are living, two in this town, Clark and Sheldon. Clark married Mary J. Howland, February, 6, 1849, and has two children, Cornelia and Harriet A., teachers. Lewis died January 11, 1861. Lewis, Jr., born December 10, 1820, married Mary Casterline, June 14, 1853, who bore him three children, Anson, John and Amy. Lewis, Jr., died April 24, 1887, and Mrs. Lounsbury occupies the homestead, with her children. Sheldon, son of Lewis, was born November 6, 1837, married Sarah J. Moe, May 8, 1878, and has three children. He resides on road 61.

Jonathan Emerson, from Albany county, N. Y., was the first settler upon the farm now owned by his son David B., about 1822. He married Mary Harlin, who bore him four children, Samuel H., Chester, Mary (Mrs. Alexander Duff), and David B. The eldest son, Samuel H., married Sarah Duncan and has three children. Jonathan died October 1, 1885, and his widow still survives him.

W. Hulse Shaw is one of the prominent farmers in the town. He came here from Orange county, N. Y., a few years ago. He was a soldier in the war of the rebellion, is president of the Tioga County Agricultural Society, was Democratic candidate for member of assembly, in 1885. He is interested in raising valuable live-stock.

Maj. Richard Spendley was for many years a prominent and wealthy resident of the town. He was one of the active Republicans of the town and county, and was often a delegate to state and other conventions. He was at one time supervisor. He removed to Salamanca a few years ago.

Henry Bogart was born in Ulster county, April 13, 1830, and came to Tioga in 1865. He married Sarah E. Cook, July 14, 1856, and has four children, Eugene D., Elmer E., Arthur and Earl.

We quote the following interesting matter from Judge Avery's "Susquehanna Valley" papers, published in 1853–54:

"This town, also, has the honor of having been the place of residence, for many of the later years of his life, of the distinguished patriot, Josiah Cleaveland, who gained his first laurels in the memorable battle of Bunker Hill. In June, 1843, he returned to the scene of his early heroism, and joined in the celebration of the completion of the monument which his grateful countrymen had reared: and there, within a few days after the commemoration of that event, surrounded by all the hallowing associations of the time and place, he resigned his soul into the hands of Him who gave it, by a remarkable and impressive providence, at the foot of the storied hill upon which his fame so proudly rested. His remains repose, in honorable burial, at Mount Auburn.

"An Indian burying-ground extended along the brow of the cliff, on the westerly bank of the Owego creek, in this town, upon the homestead premises of Messrs. J. Platt, and C. F. Johnson. It was a favorite burial place. Mrs. Whitaker narrates that upon the death of Ka-nau-kwis, whose name appears upon the Indian document, somewhat varied from the one given by her, he was brought to this place. Where he died she does not state, but Mrs. Williams recollects to have heard her father say that he received his death-wound at Tioga Point. His remains must therefore have been transported from that place to this favorite spot of interment, a distance of twenty-one miles. Although many Indian graves have been found upon the site of Owego, no indications have been there exhibited of an appropriation so exclusive for Indian burial in its ordinary mode, as the extended brow of this cliff. The rounded Indian burial mound, near the intersection of Paige and River streets, was formed either by its having been made the place of deposit for a large collection of remains upon their removal from original places of interment, or perhaps by the burial of a number of warriors who may have fallen in battle. It was not an ordinary Indian burial place.

"Many Indian graves were also found near the bank of the river, a short distance below Cassel's cove. The remains were found, here, in the usual posture, surrounded by the customary implements of the chase, and ornaments such as were usually deposited along with the body which they had contributed to support and adorn in life. But for this custom of our Indian predecessors very few of those articles, or of those of their domestic use, would have been now within our reach. The key which they have furnished to a store of Iroquois usages and antiquities, but for that national funeral rite, would have been kept from our hands.

"At the time of the pioneer settlement of this town, the evenly-wooded hill, sloping southerly upon the homestead of Mr. John Dubois, was found entirely stripped of timber, bearing the appearance of having been burned over and thoroughly cleared. It was shrubless as well as denuded of its trees. The even and remarkably uniform 'second growth' which now covers it, clearly shows this to be a fact, and corroborates the account.

"About twenty-two years since, in the easterly part of this town, upon the premises known in the olden time as the residence and home property of David Pixley, Jr., situated upon the westerly side of the Owego creek, something less than half a mile below the homestead of Mr. Ephraim Leach, a singular discovery was made. A large brass kettle was disclosed by the plough, literally filled with articles of various kinds, of ancient appearance and manufacture, and doubtless of no little value to the person who had taken the pains to bury them there. At the time of their deposit that immediate vicinity was thickly wooded, and well selected to avoid observation and escape discovery. Among other contents was a copper tea kettle, inside of which was found a pewter vessel, filled with untrimmed rifle balls, just as they came from the moulds. The other articles were an old-fashioned and peculiarly shaped hammer, a parcel of pewter plates of two sizes, the smaller ones showing no marks of use, bright, and undimmed by corrosion, and upon them the word 'LONDON' plainly impressed; a peculiarly-shaped iron or steel instrument, about six or eight inches in length, pointed, and like the head of an arrow or spear, except that it had a single barb about two inches long, on one side only; at its other extremity was a socket, apparently intended for a handle.

"This is an enumeration of a part only of the articles there found, but sufficiently complete to start many a conjecture as to their history, the time when they were secreted, whether in the revolutionary era, or anterior or subsequent to it. But, whatever may be our suppositions upon the subject, they can never take any more satisfactory form than that of mere conjecture. It may be mentioned, that at many of the earlier councils and treaties held by the Iroquois with the agents of the English government, during our colonial history, presents, similar to the major part of these, were distributed profusely among the natives, for the purpose of conciliating them, individually, and to keep bright the 'covenant-chain' with the confederacy. It would not be at all strange, if some of the Indian occupants of our valley, previous to their fleeing to the frontier upon the approach of Gens. Clinton and Sullivan, adopted this as a mode of secreting these articles from their white invaders, hoping to resume possession of them after their enemies had retired from the Susquehanna. Death or the fortunes of war might have prevented a realization of their hopes; or, if they returned, the precise spot where they were secreted, might have been forgotten: and thus these mementos of the past were left to slumber on until accident disclosed them to view."

The comparative growth of the town is shown by the following figures, from the census enumerations for the several enumerations since the town was organized: 1810, 500; 1820, 1,810; 1825, 991;

1830, 1,411; 1835, 1,987; 1845, 2,778; 1850, 2,839; 1855, 3,027; 1860, 3,202; 1865, 3,094; 1870, 3,272; 1875, 3,162; 1880, 3,192.

Initial Events.—The first log house was built by Major Wm. Ransom, who also built the first saw-mill, about 1792.

Major Ransom set out the first apple-tree, bringing it with him in a boat from Wyoming. He set out the first orchard on the west bank of the creek, and had the first nursery. George Tallcott, when on an exploring tour through the country, in 1790, says this was the first orchard he had seen between here and Albany.

Colonel David Pixley built the first grist-mill on Owego creek, in what is called to this day Pixley's Channel, in or before 1793. Previous to this and until the erection of Fitch's mill, four miles above Binghamton, in 1790, the settlers in this locality were obliged to go to Wilkesbarre with their grain by means of canoes, on the Susquehanna, which usually occupied about two weeks. The Mattesons very soon after 1793 built a mill at Canewana.

The first tavern was built of logs, and was kept by Samuel Ransom. The first framed house was built by Prince Alden.

A Mr. Denio was the first blacksmith, and had a shop at Tioga Centre. John Hill was the first carpenter.

Lodowyck Light built the first tannery, using dug-outs for vats, which was afterwards enlarged as a tannery and shoe-shop by his son, Henry Light.

Major William Ransom and Rachel Brooks, in 1792, took upon themselves matrimonial vows, and no record can be found earlier of marriages in the town.

The first recorded death is that of David Pixley, who died June 6, 1799, aged thirty-five years, and who was a son of Colonel Pixley. He was buried in the wilderness, and the Tioga cemetery occupies the same locality.

The first cemetery was the one called the Canfield cemetery, and is situated near the residence of Amos Canfield.

Rev. David Jayne was preaching here before 1796. The first camp-meeting was held on the hill on Lodowyck Light's farm, in 1807, and this hill was afterwards called by the irreverent ones of Pipe Creek, "Holy Hill." The first church was built on this place in 1812, and was a Union church.

The first school-house was built on Samuel Ransom's farm, before 1800.

The first store was kept by John Light and John Crise, at Smithboro.

A postoffice was first kept at Smithboro, by Isaac Boardman, in 1812, and by John DuBois, very soon after, at Tioga Centre. Stephen Leonard, of Owego, had the first mail contract through from Owego to Elmira, and a mail was delivered once a week. Ebenezer Meckin drove the first mail-coach through for Leonard.

The first ferry that crossed the Susquehanna river in this town was owned by John Decker and Gideon Cortright, who lived on Coxe's Patent as early as 1800.

Organization.—It is impossible to give the exact date of the first town meeting, nor a list of the officers there chosen. The records of the town were taken to Owego in 1834, to be used there to settle some point in a law-suit, and were destroyed by a fire that occurred in that village. For this reason we print the following list of officers. The list of supervisors was obtained from the county clerk's office, from 1795 to 1813, as from the town of Owego, and from 1813 to 1828 from the town of Tioga. No record can be found from that time until 1835, since which these officers are given complete:

Internal Improvements.—A ferry was used across the river before 1800, by Decker & Cortright, near where Avery Horton lives. One was started by Caleb Lyons, in 1811, the landing being on the Eli Light farm. A wire ferry was constructed by Col. William Ransom, in 1842. Smithboro & Nichols Bridge Company was incorporated April 18, 1829, and Isaac Boardman, Nehemiah Platt, and John Coryell were appointed commissioners. The bridge was soon after built, and in the spring following its erection was washed away. The second was erected March 17, 1865. Three spans were carried away by the Whitneyville mill in a freshet, and it was repaired the same season. On October 20, 1865, the new part was entirely blown down by a heavy gale, and was rebuilt in forty days. March 17, 1868, at eight o'clock, A. M., two spans of the south end were carried away by a span of the Owego bridge coming down against it. In 1880, it was again destroyed, and has not been rebuilt.

The Erie and the Southern Central railroads run through the town, following the Susquehanna river, having depots at Tioga Centre and Smithboro.

VILLAGES.

TIOGA CENTER is a small village of, approximately, four hundred inhabitants, situated about mid-way of the southern boundary of the town, at the mouth of Pipe creek. It is a station on the New York, Lake Erie & Western and the Southern Central railways. It has two churches, two hotels, a handsome union school building, a tannery, four stores, a postoffice, two blacksmith shops, a steam flouring mill, three steam saw-mills, two shoe shops, a resident physician and a drug store.

Tanning has been a thriving industry in Tioga Center since 1869. A tannery was built in 1868, by Ransom, Maxwell & Co. for a sole leather tannery. The firm was dissolved a short time thereafter, Col. William Ransom becoming the owner of the property. In June, 1869, he sold the tannery to J. & P. Quirin, who came from Boston and entirely overhauled it and converted it into an upper-leather tannery, and began the tanning of calf-skins. January 3, 1871, it was destroyed by fire; but through the progressiveness of the citizens of Tioga Center, the structure was again erected by subscription, and by the first of March, 1871, the tannery was again in full operation. October 31, 1871, one of the boilers in the tannery exploded. The explosion occurred in the morning, immediately after the blowing of the seven o'clock whistle. The boiler was hurled through the beam-house, which is 150 feet long, and through the lime-house, into an open area, where it fell, upwards of 300 feet from the arch upon which it was resting. A German, Thersal Van Order, was killed outright. Philip Quirin, one of the proprietors, was so badly injured that he died in a few days, and S. Edware Mills was injured so that he is maimed for life. Several others were injured, more or less seriously. The tannery has a capacity for tanning 300,000 calf skins annually. They are tanned here and transported to Boston and finished and marketed. The firm now consists of J. G. Quirin & Co. Owing to commercial depression during the past few years, the tannery has not been operated to anything like its fullest capacity as formerly, and during the last year (1887) very little, if any tanning has been attempted by the proprietors.

The steam flouring-mill is situate upon Pipe creek, on the site where the first saw-mill was erected, by Major William Ransom, in 1792. It was changed to a grist-mill in 1840, and in 1884 it was changed to a steam flouring-mill.

J. C. Latimer's steam saw-mill is located in Tioga Centre, upon the east side of the creek. It was built in 1820, and was a water-power mill until 1873, when it was equipped with steam. It was burned in October, 1879, but was immediately rebuilt. It also contains a feed-run and a shingle-machine. It has the capacity for sawing 2,000,000 feet of lumber annually.

The steam saw-mill of John E. Pembleton is also situate in Tioga Centre, about a half a mile up Pipe creek. It was built in 1834, by J. Schoonover and Andrew Todd, and sold in 1838 to Nealy & Smith, and was subsequently purchased by John G. Smith. It was a water-power mill until 1872, when it was changed to steam. It has connected with it lath and shingle machines, and is one of the best equipped mills along Pipe creek.

In 1879, Charles H. Tribe erected a steam planing-mill near the Southern Central railway depot, and afterward added to it a sawing department, so that now it is a complete and fully equipped steam saw and planing-mill.

The standing timber in the town of Tioga, however, has been so depleted that the lumbering industry of the town is rapidly waning, and beyond doubt a few short years hence saw-mills in Tioga will be among the things of the past.

HALSEY VALLEY.—In about 1790, Thomas, Nicholson, a surveyor, was employed to make the first partition survey of lands, belonging to the state, lying back from the Susquehanna. He bought 2,000 acres, including what is now known as Halsey Valley. He died in 1792, and a daughter was born to Mrs. Nicholson a short time after his decease, who was the lawful heir to this land. She died at eighteen years of age, and during her life this land became known as "Girl's Flat," a name it held for many years. Mrs. Nicholson became the wife of Zephaniah Halsey, whose children inherited the land by title through their mother; hence the name "Halsey Valley." It was not until about 1825 that these lands began to be sold and settled upon; then six hundred acres were sold to Seely Brothers, afterwards to Joseph West and Brother; four hundred to Presher Skillings, Van Nortunk, and others. The village is situated in the northwest part of the town, and partly in the town of Barton, and contains two churches,—Christian and Methodist; the latter being in Barton,—a school-house, a postoffice, three stores, two blacksmith-shops, two cooper-shops, and two physicians.

Luther, B. West has long been a merchant here, and one of the most prominent of the section. It must ever be a pleasure to contemplate the life of a self-made man,—one who, by strict adherence to a well defined plan of action, converts adverse circumstances into successful and honorable results. Such, in brief, is that of Mr. West.

His parents, Joseph and Sally (Bliven) West, whose ancestors were active participants in the revolutionary war, emigrated from Fort Ann, Washington county, N. Y., to Spencer, bringing their effects in a large covered wagon, which was drawn by two yoke of oxen and one horse, at a speed of about fifteen miles each day, through the then wilderness country, camping out and sleeping at night in their wagon.

Arriving at Spencer in the fall of 1818, they began housekeeping in rented rooms, in the court-house, but soon after, a home was made south of the village, upon lands purchased by Mr. West, while he worked at his trade, that of carpenter and joiner. In 1826, he rented of Andrew Purdy, and occupied his tavern and farm in Spencer for ten years, and conducted the business until April, 1836, when he removed to Halsey Valley (then called Girl's Flats), on a tract of land purchased in 1832, of Isaac and Enos Briggs and John D. Seeley, upon which he had made some improvements while living in Spencer. Here he resided, clearing land, lumbering and farming until March, 1857, when he died, leaving a widow who died in March, 1880, and four children, viz.: Charles, Luther B., Sarah J., who was the wife of Nicholas Schoonmaker, and Warren B.

Luther Bliven West, the subject of this sketch, was born at Spencer, April 13, 1823, and attended the district school until thirteen years of age, when, by accompanying his father who at this time moved to Girl's Flats—then mostly a wilderness—his educational advantages were ended, excepting a few weeks attendance during the following winter.

The pupils of the common schools of to-day may profitably contrast the educational advantages and collateral accompaniments they enjoy, with those furnished by the "People's College" of a half century ago. To assist in making the comparison, it may be stated that the architectural features of the Girl's Flats schoolhouse were those common to structures of that class throughout the country, viz.: the building was constructed of rough logs, the spaces between which being filled with mud and sticks, a single section of window sash in each of three sides of the building admitting the light, door, swinging on wooden hinges and was opened by pulling a string attached to a wooden latch. A single slab set upon wooden pegs inserted in two-inch holes, constituted a seat—no support being given to the pupil's back. Abundant warmth and ventilation were secured by burning logs four to six feet in length, in a large stone fire place and chimney, which logs were usually cut by the boys on Saturday afternoons, for use during the following week. The principal text books in use were Cobb's spelling-book and Daboll's Arithmetic. That nature and the school-master were in league was painfully evident to all, for, from the surrounding forest was obtained a never-ending supply of tough young beeches, which, under the skillful guidance of the latter, demonstrated his superiority, inculcated feelings of awe if not reverence, maintained discipline and were practical definitions of thoroughness and liberality.

Remaining with his father and actively assisting in clearing land and lumbering until the spring of 1844, when, being of legal age, he commenced business for himself by farming land for a share.

On June 9, 1844, he married Martha L., daughter of William and Laura Presher, who were among the first settlers in the Valley, and had to contend for possession with bears, wolves, and panthers that then infested the forest. They raised a large family of children, of whom Mrs. West, the youngest daughter, was born in the town of Barton, June 1, 1824.

Not satisfied with the results obtained by farming, in the spring of 1846, without other capital than energy, and without practical knowledge of the business, he purchased a small stock of goods and opened a store at Halsey Valley. The country being new and money scarce, trade was conducted mostly for barter in staves, shingles and lumber, the outlet to market being either by canal at Ithaca, a distance of twenty-five miles, or by rafting on the Susquehanna river—eight miles distant—to Port Deposit and

Baltimore, Md. After many hard struggles, a fair business was established. In 1849, he purchased, and in connection with Eliakim D. Hoyt, put steam-power in a grist and flouring mill, and manufactured flour and sawed shingles in large quantities for market; also had a saw-mill, and by purchase placed upon the market lumber made by other mills. In 1854, as the country became better settled and improved, the mercantile branch of the business was enlarged, a new store opened, and his two brothers, Charles and Warren B., admitted to a partnership that was soon afterward dissolved. For many years after, he conducted alone a large and successful business, which was gradually closed out as more important matters claimed his attention.

In 1862, he was elected justice of the peace, and continued in office by re-election for twelve consecutive years, when he declined to serve longer. During this period, he was for several terms elected justice of the county sessions.

By special order, No. 528, dated August 15, 1863, issued by the Commander-in-chief, Horatio Seymour, Governor of New York, he was authorized to raise a regiment of infantry of the National Guard in the county of Tioga, and be commissioned colonel thereof, and immediately began the work. After partly organizing several companies he was obliged to abandon it and resign, by reason of the severe and protracted illness of his wife.

In 1864, he was appointed one of a committee to procure volunteers, and financial agent to fill the quota assigned to the town of Tioga, under the call of the President for troops. To carry out the work necessitated the issuance of bonds amounting to $10,000.00, which debt was paid the following year, leaving the town free from any bonded debt, such as most adjoining towns were loaded with for years thereafter, and a continual source of annoyance to the tax-payers. The prompt payment of this war debt was largely due to his persistent efforts and advocacy of the principle, that the payment of a debt made when the currency was inflated should not be deferred until the currency became contracted. In this instance, as is too often the case, where individual effort is exerted for the public good, the scheme was for a time bitterly denounced; but its merits were soon recognized and generally acknowledged. He regards this as his masterpiece in financiering.

In 1865, he was elected supervisor of the town of Tioga, and on January 18, 1865, he, with others, organized the Tioga National Bank, at Owego. Being one of the principal stockholders, he was elected to a directorship, and in February, 1869, to the vice-presidency—to both of which positions he has been annually re-elected to the present time.

Besides the enterprises before mentioned, he has been for the past twenty-five years extensively engaged in farming and dairying, and latterly is giving much attention to investments in improved farms in Kansas and Nebraska. To promoting the school and other interests of his neighborhood he has given much of his time and attention. Has always been identified with the principles of Democracy, and is a practical temperance man. In 1864, he embraced the cause of religion and united with the Methodist Episcopal church at Halsey Valley.

Upwards of forty-two years of uninterrupted enjoyment of married life had elapsed, when, on November 6, 1886, Death claimed the wife who had witnessed and assisted him in his early struggles, and had shared, but too briefly, the fruits of their triumphs over obstacles that would have discouraged others less persevering. She was a typical wife, a womanly woman and a mother whose greatest pride was her children, of whom there were five—three daughters and two sons—their births, etc., occurring as follows: Olive, July 20, 1847, married Charles O. Wood, November 2, 1870, and died August 20, 1872; Alice, July 20, 1850, married Dr. Charles E. Hollenbeck, December 29, 1875; Ida, December 31, 1858; Grant M., April 19, 1864; and Norman L., February 16, 1867.

Personally, Mr. West is a man of fine physique, somewhat military in his bearing, easily approached, an entertaining conversationalist well informed on all general subjects, and an acknowledged authority on all matters with which he has business relations. Trained in the rugged school of self-education, his judgment of events and men seldom misleads him. Self-reliant, sagacious, bold yet cautious, practical, methodical, always using experience to sharpen foresight and over all a marked individualism easier recognized than described, are among his prominent traits of character, the judicious exercise of which has brought the abundant prosperity he now enjoys. Life to him seems most enjoyable, and he is seen at his best when absorbed in a business problem.

Ira Hoyt was of English descent, his ancestors settling at Danbury, Mass., at an early day. His grandfather, Nathaniel Hoyt, was an officer in the revolutionary army, and settled after the war at Winchester, Conn. He was a farmer, and reared a large family. He died at the advanced age of eighty-eight years. Ira Hoyt, 2d, was born in Danbury, in 1797. He was twice married; and by his first wife were born to him five, by his second wife four, children. He died at the age of seventy-seven, in 1864. Ira, the eldest child of Ira and Anna Hoyt, was born in Litchfield, Conn., September 9, 1821. His boyhood days were passed in attending the common school, and in laboring upon the farms of his neighborhood, until he was twenty-one years of age, when he married Miss Helen M. Roberts. The issue of this union was two children: Charles, who died at the age of five years, and Josephine, who married John Hutchins. Helen Hoyt died in 1862, aged thirty-five years. In 1864, Mr. Hoyt filled the vacancy in his home by introducing therein as his wife Mrs. Hollenbeck, of Barton. In the year 1850, he removed to Tioga county, settling at Halsey Valley, which he has since made his home. Although by occupation a cooper, he owns a small farm, and engages himself mainly in its care, and in the propagation of fish. In the latter enterprise he has been very successful, and owns a very fine pond, of which he is justly proud. For many years he has also been engaged in the manufacture of butter packages, his factory being operated by both steam and water-power, and employing a number of men.

Dr. Charles Hollenbeck was born in the town of Barton, a son of Richard and Lydia A. (Hyatt) Hollenbeck, June 4, 1850. He studied in the district schools, at Waverly Institute, at Eastman's Business College at Poughkeepsie, beginning the study of medicine at Bellevue Hospital Medical College, graduating in March, 1874. He immediately began practice at Halsey Valley, where he has since been located. The Doctor married Alice West, daughter of Luther B. West, December 29, 1875.

SMITHBORO is a small post village located in the southwestern part of the town on the Susquehanna river, and on the N. Y. L. E. & W. and the S. C. railroads. It has a church, a fine school building, several stores, two hotels, mechanic's shops, etc.

Ezra Smith, after whom Smithboro was named, and who held letters patent, covering a large tract of land in this vicinity, came from Bedford, Westchester county, N. Y., in 1791, and settled at Smithboro, in the house on the corner where Walter C. Randall now resides. He afterward sold his property and kept the Half-Way House, a well known tavern, mid-way between Ithaca and Owego. Isaac S. Broadman bought the property of Ezra Smith, at Smithboro, enlarged the house into a tavern; this was the first tavern at Smithboro, and he the first tavern keeper.

A family named Lyon settled at the ferry a short distance east of Smithboro; Lyon was the first keeper of the ferry; his house is still standing, on the west bank of the creek, just back of the house where Mrs. Eli Light resides, to which place it was moved from the middle of the present orchard. A family named Fountain settled in the same neighborhood. The Lyon house and the old Broadman tavern, the latter now much altered and improved, are the oldest buildings now standing in the vicinity of Smithboro. At a later period Wait Smith came from Wyoming, about 1800, and built the house which stood until 1865, where Houston Platt's house now stands; Ezekiel Newman came and built the house where Mrs. Zebulon Bowman now resides; Benjamin Smith came and built the house where Benjamin Lounsbury, Jr., now resides; James Schoonover, Jr., came and built the house which Amos Lounsbury resided in for several years, and which was recently moved away and mostly torn down to make a place for his new residence; Mrs. James Brooks, whose husband was a son of James Brooks, of Tioga Centre, who died in the war of 1812, built the house which is still standing on Meeting-House Hill, a short distance east of Smithboro.

Beriah Mundy came about 1787, and settled where Mundy Schoonover now resides; his house stood near the present house, but was afterward moved westward, across the creek, into the town of Barton, where it still stands, painted a brown color, and has been occupied for many years by the Barden family.

Edward V. Poole, son of Daniel, whose ancestors were the founders of Weymouth, Mass., in 1635, was born April 3, 1826, at Manyunk, a suburb of Philadelphia, Pa. He attended Wyoming Seminary, Kingston, Pa., 1849–50. He has been a merchant and business man nearly all his life; commenced in the lumber business at Beaumont, Pa., but afterward removed to Center Moreland, Pa. He then removed to Mt. Carmel, Ill., where he did a large mercantile and lumbering business. He then returned to Center Moreland, but soon after removed to Smithboro, in 1865, where he transacted a large mercantile business. He built a large, three-story, double store, which he occupied at Smithboro, and which was burned. He has been for many years one of the most successful business men of Tioga county. He married, September 11, 1850, Susan Carey, daughter of Samuel Carey, Esq., of Centre Moreland, Pa. Their children are Charles F., of Tioga Center; Emily A., deceased; Murry E., a law student and graduate of Cornell University, to whom we are indebted for many facts in this sketch of Tioga; Clara I. (Mrs. Titus Baker); and Laura F. (Mrs. Thomas B. Campbell).

Walter Crowley Randall was born October 15, 1828, in the town of Owego. He learned the shoemaker's trade, which he followed a great many years, 1835–65. He married, March 1, 1850, Amelia Carnochan. He settled first at Vestal, but soon removed to Campville, where he remained only a short time, and then moved to Smithboro, in 1852, when he was appointed bridge-keeper, a position he held until 1883, a period of thirty-one years. He commenced farming in 1865, which he followed three years. He then commenced the mercantile business, which he followed eight years, then commenced farming again, in 1880, which he still follows. He was chiefly instrumental in founding the masonic lodge, at Smithboro, and was its first master, holding that office several years, and being frequently sent as representative to the Grand Lodge. He has also been a justice of the peace, at different periods, for sixteen years.

STRAIT'S CORNERS is located on a branch of Pipe creek, on the north line of the town, lying partly in Candor. David Strait, from whom the place derives its name, settled here in 1825. The village contains two churches,—Christian and Baptist; the latter being in the town of Candor,—postoffice, school-house, store and blacksmith-shop. Its postoffice was established in 1853.

GOODRICH SETTLEMENT is located just across Owego creek, the corporation boundary of Owego on the west. Near by is the famous "Glenmary" place, now owned by Colonel Dorwin. This settlement has been the home for longer or shorter periods of N. P. Willis, the poet; Hon. Wheeler H. Bristol, state treasurer; D. C. McCallum, formerly general superintendent of the Erie railroad; Dr. Galloway, of the Electropathic Institute, of Philadelphia, Pa.; and Charles F. Johnson.

GERMAN SETTLEMENT is a little hamlet east from Strait's Corners, mostly in the town of Tioga, and was settled by Germans in 1830.

Leach's Grist Mill, on road 28, was built by Caleb Leach, in 1806. Mr. Leach was a native of Plymouth, Mass.; early learned the trade of watch-maker; made the first twisted auger in the United States; built the Fairmount water-works, at Philadelphia, and had charge of the Manhattan water-works. When he came here, in 1806, he established a carding-mill and grist-mill. He spent his later years in Utica, where he died. The mill descended to Ephraim Leach, father of Stephen W., the present proprietor. It has four runs of stones, and has the capacity for grinding 25,000 bushels per year.

Stephen W. Jones' Saw-mill, on road 1, was built by James Pumpelly, in 1827, and came into Mr. Jones' possession in 1872. The saw-mill has a circular-saw, and the capacity for sawing 1,000,000 feet per year. The grist-mill has one run of stones, and does custom work. He also does planing, turning, etc. Employs two hands.

James R. Willmott's Saw-mill is located on road 28, where he also has a plaster-mill and ice-house.

CHURCHES.

At a very early day religious services were held in dwelling-houses, barns, and school-houses, mostly by circuit preachers of the Methodist denomination, and Baptist ministers. In 1796 the Baptist church of New Bedford was organized with nine members, partly from this town. Tioga was afterwards substituted for New Bedford, and in 1847 it was again changed to the Tioga and Barton Baptist church, the history of which will be found in the town of Barton. The Methodists were numerous, and held services in the Light neighborhood. Between April 14, 1805, and the 1st of May, the eccentric Lorenzo Dow preached at Pipe Creek, in the house of Andrew Alden, with whom he stopped. In the summer of 1807, Bishop Asbury presided at a camp-meeting on the hill, where the Union church was afterwards built. In his "Life" is this statement: "After attending the General Conference at Boston, on the 1st of June, 1807, he started for the West by a new route,—that of the Mohawk, the Geneva, the Chemung, and the Susquehanna. Turning south, he passed along the shores of Seneca lake, and down the lovely valley of the Chemung to the Susquehanna, near Owego. He then descended that river to Wyoming." While here he stopped at the house of Lodowyck Light. The Asbury camp-meeting grounds of Barton, Tioga, and Nichols charge were located on the same farm.

The Union church was built on this hill by both Methodists and Baptists, and used jointly by them until the lines of denominational differences became so tightly drawn they could not agree; which differences were finally settled, as far as the church was concerned, in the summer of 1827, when it was struck by lightning and entirely destroyed. This house was thirty by forty feet, with galleries round the entire building, and never finished; the lower portion, however, being lathed and plastered.

Methodist Episcopal Church at Smithboro.—November 19, 1832, a meeting was held at the school-house in District No. 4, town of Tioga, to incorporate a society to be called the Methodist Episcopal Society of Smithboro, John Light, Andrew Bonham, and Benjamin V. Brooks as trustees. It was voted that the seal to be used by the trustees be the triangle, and a committee was appointed to build a church. This committee entered into a contract with C. C. Yontz and Willard Cratsley to erect a church for $1,500. January 7, 1835, "It was resolved, that all orthodox societies of any denomination shall have the privilege of preaching at any time in the Smithboro church, when unoccupied, but none other, at any time." Its church edifice was erected in 1833. The building was burned May 24, 1887. Rev. Luther Peck is the present pastor.

The Methodist Episcopal Church on Ross Hill was organized with thirty-six members in November, 1870, and its church edifice erected in the same year. Rev. A. B. Eckert was the first pastor; Rev. Luther Peck, the present one.

Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal Church of Smithboro was organized in 1866, and its church edifice erected in 1874. The first vestry was composed of the following: wardens, John C. Gray and L. Burr Pearsall; vestrymen, Gilbert Pearsall, G. O. Chase, John C. Pearsall, Frederick C. Coryell, W. C. Randall and O. A. Barstow. The first rector was Rev. J. F. Esch; the first resident rector was Rev. John Scott, who was succeeded by Rev. Mr. Rodgers, for a short time, when he was succeeded by Rev. John A. Bowman, the present rector.

Baptist Church of Tioga Centre.—A number of Baptist brethren, members of the Owego Baptist church, living in this section, made application to that church to be allowed to act as a branch and receive members, which was granted, and January 13, 1838, they organized as a branch society at Canfield Corners, in the town of Nichols. October 13, 1838, they resolved to become a separate body. A council was called, and they were received as a church, with twenty-three members.

January 25, 1840, it was resolved to change the location to Nichols village. April 11, 1840, eleven members, residents mostly of this town, united by letter from what is now the Tioga and Barton church. December 12, 1840, Rev. Charles F. Fox was called to the pastorate. October 12, 1844, it was resolved to change the name to the Baptist Church of Tioga Centre, and services were held in the school-house in that place. In 1849, the present church was built, at a cost of $2,000. Rev. Mr. Tilden is the present pastor.

The Methodist Episcopal Church of Tioga Centre.—The Methodists of this section had been supplied with ministers from Barton for several years, but were regularly organized October 20, 1870, as a church. In 1872 a house was built, combining elegance and utility, at a cost of $8,000, and dedicated December 12, 1873. Rev. Mr. Todd is the present pastor.

The Christian Church, was organized at Strait's Corners, in 1850, with seventeen members, Rev. B. B. Hurd as pastor; erected a house in 1855.

The Christian Church, at Halsey Valley, was organized in 1847; erected a meeting-house in 1856, Rev. A. J. Welton being the first pastor.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, at German Settlement, was organized by its first pastor, Rev A. W. Loomis, in 1856. The church building was erected in 1870. The society now has forty members, with Rev. A. Osborne, pastor.

J. J. VAN KLEECK,

Fire Insurance and Real Estate Agent,

AND NECOTIATOR OF

FIRST-CLASS WESTERN FARM MORTGAGE SECURITIES.

Buildings and property insured in the best of companies, at current rates, and losses fairly and promptly adjusted.

Parties wishing to sell or buy Real Estate, can generally be accommodated by entrusting their wants to me.

No further need of having your money lie idle. All my Western Farm Mortgages are No. 1, and the land increases in value every year. Interest and principal payable at your own bank on the day it becomes due. No person who has allowed me to loan their money has ever lost a single dollar in the fifteen years of my experience.

My only charge to the investor is one dollar on each $100 invested at time of making the loan. Letters of inquiry solicited, and promptly answered.

CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY

EXPLANATION.

The towns are alphabetically arranged at the end of the line, under the business classifications. The postoffice address of each individual or firm follows after the name, except in cases where the name of the postoffice and the township is the same. In the villages the name of the street is generally given, and precedes that of the postoffice. The classification of farmers is omitted in this list, as they can readily be found in the general list, by noting the figures at the end of the line, which indicate the number of acres owned or leased by each. Road numbers signify the same as in the general list.

ERRATA.

PART FIRST.

In seventh line, second paragraph, page 192, read 1851, for "1857."
In eighth line from bottom, page 192, read Hull for "Hall."
In tenth line from bottom, page 383, read 1876, for "1776."
In ninth line, second paragraph, page 387, read Mrs. Lovejoy for "Mr. Lovejoy."
In second line, second paragraph, page 388, read comprise for "confine."
In fifth line, second paragraph, page 391, read Wheeler H. for "George W."
With reference to Mr. LeRoy W. Kingman's history of the town of Owego, we wish to make an explanation, fearing that we have left some points ambiguous. On page 361, we say: "This completes the biographical sketches furnished by Mr. Kingman," etc., and, "We add the following additional sketches." The latter sketches end with the heading, "Business Centers," on page 383, and Mr. Kingman's sketch continues, the remainder of the history being his matter, except an interpolation of a brief sketch of the "present business interests," page 391, and "physicians," page 393, by the Publishers. We make this explanation to justly relieve Mr. Kingman from the responsibility of authorship of any facts we may have inserted in his sketch.

PART SECOND.

In the town of Spencer, page 185, should have been inserted the following: Brock Thomas, president Farmers' and Merchants' Bank, stock dealer, farmer 50, in Chemung county 450, and in Tompkins county 50. h VanEtten.
